U. N. COUNTER-OFFENSIVE OPENED

Congress Opens Defense Post To Marshall

Bill Lifting Legal Barrier Adopted Over GOP Protests

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Congress overrode stormy Republican protests today to approve a special law permitting Gen. George C. Marshall to take over the civilian post of Secretary of Defense.

Marshall, a lifelong soldier, was Army Chief of Staff during World War II and later became Secretary of State.

The Senate agreed to lift the present legal barrier against appointment of a military man to the post—with the explicit understanding that the rule is waived for Marshall alone. The vote was 47 to 21.

The House has previously passed the bill, 220 to 105.

While the measure now goes to the White House, the Senate must still confirm Marshall to succeed Louis A. Johnson, who resigned under pressure on Tuesday.

Dictatorship Fears Aired

While most of the scattered criticism in both chambers was impersonal, the debate produced some sharply critical references to Marshall's past role as a diplomat, notably his policies toward the Chinese communists.

Opponents also contended that putting a soldier in the traditionally civilian defense job might set the stage for a future military dictatorship. Rep. Meyer (R-Kans) said it was "the first goose step" in that direction.

Republican Sen. Taft (Ohio), Knowland (Calif), Mundt (SD), Hickenlooper (Iowa), Butler (Nsb) and Cain (Wash) took a similar stand in Senate debate.

Jenner Assails Marshall

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) launched a bitter attack on Marshall, calling him "a living lie" and a "stooge" for Secretary of State Acheson.

But Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) sharply challenged Jenner's statement, declaring:

"If there is any man who is decent and clean and whose actions have been for the public interest, it is George C. Marshall."

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) agreed. He called Marshall "one of the greatest living Americans—first of all a great civilian."

Conferees Work Out Compromise Red Control Bill

'Concentration Camp' Provision Included

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (INS)—A House-Senate conference today agreed on a compromise communist control bill including a modified "concentration camp" provision and a tough red registration section.

Senate conferees also went along with the House bill provisions denying communists or red fronters jobs in defense plants operating under government contracts. Both versions of the measure bar such persons from government jobs and passport rights.

The Senate-backed detention camp provision was revised to bring into line with the Constitution by ensuring that it can only be applied in case of "invasion of rebellion."

The word "war" as a condition for applying the power was eliminated.

An authoritative Capitol Hill source had predicted that President Truman would veto the measure if the detention camp provision were eliminated entirely.

What Mr. Truman will do still is in doubt, as he told his Thursday news conference he would have to see the bill in final form before he decides on a veto. The President said before he would not sign the Senate bill, but that was before the amendment was added to provide for the internment of subversives.

It was also learned that the House accepted the Senate section making unlawful an act of conspiracy to set up a foreign control dictatorship in the U. S.

Membership in a subversive organization is not sufficient evidence for conviction on this point.

Under the compromise the original requirement was that communists and communist organizations, communist action groups and officers must register.

The conferees did not take a final vote of approval on the compromise today. They will meet again Monday morning to do that.

U. S. Favors Soft Peace With Japs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The United States is ready to press its wartime Pacific allies to accept a soft peace with Japan, without restrictions on rearmament or trade, and without reparations or indemnity.

Administration plans also call for retaining Okinawa as an American military base under a United Nations trusteeship, and, with Tokyo's consent, to keep American troops in Japan after the formal occupation is ended.

This American program was outlined today by responsible officials, following President Truman's statement that he has directed the State Department to renew treaty preliminaries immediately with 12 other wartime foes of Japan. Soviet Russia is included.

If Moscow as widely expected continues to insist on a treaty dictated by the big powers alone, officials believe the non-communist nations will agree to a separate peace settlement which would leave Japan in a technical state of war with Russia and in the western camp. Indications already have been received that Japanese leaders favor this course.

Britain Warned Of Sabotage Plot

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Labor government declared today it has uncovered a developing communist plot to sabotage Britain's defense built-up with a series of lightning strikes.

Labor Minister George Isaacs said British reds are aiming their first blows at the docks, the transport system and the nation's meat supplies.

He told the House of Commons an organization set up to operate the master plan will go into action at a series of worker mass meetings this weekend.

Anthony Eden, Conservative leader, termed Isaacs' statement "one of the gravest which has been made to us in the House in recent years in times of peace." In reply to a question from Eden, the Labor Minister said if necessary Parliament will be asked for new legislation to strengthen the government's hand against the reds.

Isaacs said communist agitators already are in action in a huge and spreading bus strike which all but floundered the London transport system today.

Kirk Calls On Gromyko

MOSCOW, Sept. 15 (AP) — The United States Embassy said American Ambassador Alan G. Kirk called on Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, this afternoon.

GE And Rival Unions Settle Long Dispute

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP) — The General Electric Company and two unions today ended a lengthy contract struggle marked by strikes and agreed on contract terms for more than 100,000 workers.

Forty thousand CIO workers have been involved in the walkouts, which the company said hampered war production, including jet engines.

The CIO settlement provided for an average 10-cent hourly wage increase, half of which went into effect July 1; potential cost of living pay increases; a $125-a-month pension plan and insurance benefits.

Terms of a separate settlement with an independent union representing almost half the GE workers were not divulged, but were believed similar.

Previous wage scales of the two unions have not been given out.

Scattered strikes by CIO workers began Aug. 29. Later, a general walkout was called and then rescinded at the government's request, but GE strikes have continued in some cities.

A CIO union spokesman voiced confidence the strikers would return to work on Monday, although actual signing of the contracts will not take place until later.

Settlement, except on details of pensions and insurance, was reached in New York with the Independent United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE), claiming to represent 45,000 workers in 46 GE plants.

The company and the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE), claiming to represent 60,000 workers in 60 GE plants, reached agreement in Washington.

WE Offer Rejected

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15 (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corporation today offered an eight-cent hourly pay boost to approximately 80,000 employes and it was promptly rejected by two major unions.

One-Year-Old Boy Drowns In Wash Tub

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP) — There was a crash in front of Mrs. Luther Rowe's home yesterday. She left her wash tub and went out to see it.

Two cars had collided.

Mrs. Rowe came back to her washing in a few minutes. In one of the tubs was the body of her one-year-old grandson, Ernest Kelly Jones. He had toddled across the floor and fallen in.

U. S. Proposal For European Defense Given Treaty Council

Unified Force Would Include Both Americans And Germans

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson laid before the North Atlantic Council late today a one-package American proposal for the defense of Western Europe. It would include use of both American and German military contingents in a single unified force.

Acheson's proposition also calls for a supreme effort by all the other 11 Atlantic treaty nations to raise and equip their own military contingents for the prospective new international army.

According to information from fully informed diplomatic sources, Acheson went down the line for creation of a command staff to direct the training and organization of the new force. He declared that from its initial stages of organization it should have a single overall commander.

Reaction Is Awaited

The U. S. Secretary made his proposal at the end of this afternoon's four-hour council session. Other ministers had already spoken and their reaction to his one-package plan — particularly to the idea of arming Western German units — will not be fully known in the council until tomorrow.

There is considerable optimism apparent among American diplomats that the idea will be accepted, though it might not be announced at once.

The aim of the United States, Acheson said, is to create a powerful will to resist aggression in the whole area of Western Europe by providing the means of resistance.

Therefore, he continued, a halfway effort is not enough.

On the part of the United States, Acheson said, the offer to assign a part of its military forces to an international command marks a revolutionary development in foreign policy and shows the extent to which this nation is prepared to go.

Germany Could Be Battleground

With respect to Germany, Acheson said the United States believes the time has come for a decision in principle on the inclusion of German military units, and details can be worked out later.

In the event that war broke out in Europe, Acheson continued, the Atlantic powers would be fighting as far east as possible which would mean fighting on German soil, and the Western Germans should have opportunities to defend their own territory, especially since forces from the other side of Germany presumably would be involved.

3 Yanks Burned Alive By Reds

WITH THE U. S. SECOND DIVISION IN KOREA, Sept. 15 (AP) — American soldiers told an Army inquiry board today that at least three of their buddies were thrown into a huge roaring fire by their red captors on the western front recently.

This latest grisly story in a list of North Korean atrocities against captured Americans came to light at a U. S. Second Division investigation.

There have been many proved instances of American prisoners being shot to death with their hands tied behind their backs. In one of these established cases, a North Korean woman guerrilla did the shooting.

The burned Americans were captured when reds overran their advance outpost Aug. 31.

Their escaped comrades told the board of inquiry that at least three American GIs were thrown into a bonfire, about 10 feet across, built for that purpose with old blankets and anything else available.

Hail Causes Heavy Damage In Joplin, Mo.

JOPLIN, Mo., Sept. 15 (AP) — A barrage of large hailstones ripped through rooftops and windows, causing an estimated $1,500,000 damage early today.

The storm lasted about 10 minutes, hitting the city in two waves, and the roar awakened many of this southwest Missouri City's 40,000 inhabitants. Many thought a tornado was sweeping the city.

Representatives of major insurance companies, who made the damage estimate, said roofs of 6,500 to 8,000 buildings were wrecked or damaged by the hail, some as big as 9½ inches in circumference. Neon signs, awnings and windows were shattered.

Tax Bill Hits Snag, Fouling Recess Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The $4,508,000,000 war tax bill ran into such stiff disagreement today that Congress had to abandon its plan to quit tomorrow night.

A House and Senate conference committee, after okaying sharp tax increases for individuals and corporations, fell out over provisions supposed to tighten up the tax laws.

But Chairman Doughton (D-NC), of the House delegation on the committee, expressed certainty that the bill will be passed in time to make higher income taxes on 50,000,000 individuals effective on October 1 as planned. Chairman George (D-Ga), of the Senate group, said he too expects agreement in time.

Rate Goes Up To 18 Per Cent

Individual withholding rates are scheduled to go up from the present 15 per cent, after exemptions, to 18 per cent. Exemptions are figured about $11 a week for each person. Thus the increase is one-fifth of the present withholding tax.

The corporation increase affects half the income for 1950, with the maximum rate hiked from 38 per cent to 45. These two increases are figured to produce $4,200,000,000 new revenue, with the remainder coming from a variety of new rules.

Bill Requested By Truman

The bill was requested by President Truman as a first installment on defense costs—an emergency tax measure to be followed by another. It also aims a blow at inflation.

Conferees got along fine until they reached the tax law tightening sections on which Senate and House had different ideas.

One of the complicated provisions on which the committee met disagreement is the treatment of capital gains and losses on property used in trade or business.

Conferees One-Third Through Money Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee today plowed a third of the way through the huge $17,192,000,000 emergency money bill to pay for stronger defense against the red menace.

The committee was reported to have agreed tentatively on a figure to build up the Voice of America information program which lies between the Senate's vote for an extra $97,000,000 and the House $77,000,000.

It was learned that the conferees also gave approval to a $6,000,000 request for building up the FBI force to tighten internal security measures.

Allies Launch Push On 70-Mile Front Along South Beachhead; Marines Drive Beyond Inchon

Leathernecks, Ahead Of Schedule, Pressing Forward Toward Seoul

TOKYO, Saturday, Sept. 16 (AP)—Ahead of schedule, U. S. Marines drove toward Seoul today from their landing point at Inchon on Korea's west coast, cuting behind a 140,000-man red army which other United Nations forces attacked frontally this morning.

A flagship dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Relman Morin said reinforcements were pouring into the scene of Friday's landings while the first waves quickly seized all objectives and swept east of Inchon.

(A naval spokesman in Washington estimated the total force involved at upwards of 40,000.)

By mid-morning today, the advancing leathernecks ceased calling for warship fire, suggesting they were meeting light opposition in their bid to seize all vital avenues for supplying and reinforcing the bypassed red army.

While Gen. Douglas MacArthur personally directed the U. S. 10th Corps in a drive aimed at seizing Seoul's supply rotues, U. S., British and South Korean troops at the beachhead opened a heavy offensive this morning.

Supported by tanks, planes and artillery, they struck along a front of more than 70 miles from the beachhead's south end up to and beyond Taegu.

Swinging over to the offensive a day after MacArthur personally directed amphibious landings at Inchon, the ground forces sought to tear the line to pieces and send spearheads 165 miles northwestward toward Seoul.

Simultaneous Attacks

MacArthur's 10th Corps assault landing quickly penetrated the post of Inchon within 22 miles of Seoul. The general's aim was to seize supply routes there and clamp a vise on the reds.

The first of three coordinated blows against the southeast beachhead was struck at 7 a. m. along the Naktong River, between Taegu and the southern front.

Two hours later, simultaneous attacks began north and northwest of Taegu, near the center of the battle line and west of Masan at the south end of the front.

Associated Press Correspondent Jack MacBeth said the attack north of Taegu kicked off while planes and artillery pinned down communists dug in on mountain positions overlooking the reds.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton reported the southern drive had for its first mission to "kill as many of the enemy as possible."

Swinton said the Americans at the outset of the attack burst from their defense positions but reports indicated hard fighting was ahead.

Communists "On Spot"

The communists were swiftly threatened with:

1. Being trapped from behind at Inchon by 10th Corps operations which speedily penetrated two miles into that port city the first day.

2. With being cut off from retreat along the east coast road by South Korean commandos who went ashore Friday at three points north of red-held Pohang.

3. With being split down the middle by today's push beyond Taegu—the key American base which the reds come close to capturing, once fighting to within less than seven miles of it.

Reds dug in on heights dominating the approaches to Taegu, were pounded by low-flying fighter bombers and field guns as the U. N. troops struck along highways leading north.

Simultaneously with the Inchon assault, South Korean Republican troops made secondary landings on the Korean east coast behind the red lines. The South Koreans also reported an Allied landing on the west coast at Kunsan, 115 miles south of Inchon, but this was not officially confirmed.

Symington Hints Crackdown Due On "Chiselers"

Anti-Hoarding Order Expected Next Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — The nation's defense production chief, W. Stuart Symington, today blamed most recent price jumps on a few "unpatriotic chiselers" and hinted that a government crackdown is in the offing.

An anti-hoarding order, directed at industry, is due next week.

Symington said "serious damage" is being done by the activities of "people new in the market, organized to make an illegal or black market profit, or at least a profiteering profit."

Plans To Be Ready Soon

The National Securities Resources Board head said comprehensive plans to deal with the situation will be ready in a week or so. He noted that the government has the power—under the new defense production act—to seize inventories and penalize hoarders.

"We would like to get hold of some of these hoarders and show what they have been doing," Symington told a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee which is keeping tabs on the country's defense production program.

President Truman last Saturday gave Symington overall supervision of the program.

All-Out Rubber Production

Symington also disclosed that the President has ordered the production of synthetic rubber by government-owned plants stepped up to capacity.

This would mean an annual increase of 80,000 tons of so-called general service rubber, to a new total of 760,000 tons.

Even before Symington spoke out, the new National Production Authority made ready to impose its first curb on industry — an "inventory control" order designed to stop hoarding of scarce war materials.

This will be followed, perhaps next week, by an order requiring all producers to give priority in production and delivery to firms holding military contracts.

Filipino Volcano Erupts; 84 Dead

MANILA, Saturday, Sept. 16 (AP)—Unofficial reports today raised the number of dead in a sudden eruption of Hibok Hibok volcano in the Southern Philippines to 84 persons.

Thirty-five others were injured seriously by hot ashes.

Inhabitants of three villages near the flaming volcano were evacuated to other parts of Camiguin Island. The villages were being showered by red hot ashes.

It was still feared that hot lava would begin flowing from the volcano as it did two years ago when 30,000 residents of the island fled the island.

President Elpidio Quirino immediately ordered three naval patrol vessels to little Camiguin island to assist in evacuating its 45,000 or more inhabitants if need arises.

Just two years ago Hibok Hibok erupted, from Sept. 1 to 16. Some 30,000 inhabitants fled the island. Only five persons were killed however.

Gabrielson Predicts Sen. Taft's Reelection

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (INS)—Guy G. Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, predicted tonight that Sen. Robert A. Taft would win his battle for reelection in Ohio by a "substantial margin."

Earlier, however, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Republican national committeeman from Ohio, declared:

"We're running scared in Ohio—but that's the way to win."

Gabrielson told newsmen at the conclusion of the GOP's two-day "shirtsleeves conference" of the national committee with leaders of 20 midwest and southern states:

"I feel very, very optimistic about our chances this fall."

Senate Action On O'Dwyer Delayed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — An objection by Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) tonight delayed Senate action on the appointment of former Mayor O'Dwyer of New York as ambassador to Mexico.

Sen. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, served notice he will bring up the nomination Monday.

Hickenlooper objected to approval of the nomination by unanimous consent, although he said he was ready to go ahead with consideration of it. However the necessary motion to bring it up tonight was not made, and his single objection was enough to hold up action.

Sen. Ives (R-NY) told the Senate he shares the "reluctance" of some of his colleagues to approve the appointment, but announced he will not oppose it.

Super Passenger Liner To Be Converted Into Troop Ship

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The government announced today the 48,000-ton super passenger liner it is helping to build will be finished as a troop transport.

Three 13,000-ton combination passenger-cargo ships also under construction will be converted into troop ships along with the luxury liner, the Federal Maritime Board and Maritime Administration announced.

The changeover is being made at the request of the Defense Department "on recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff," the maritime agencies said.

Vice Adm. Edward L. Cochrane, chairman of the board and chief of the Maritime Administration, said these four vessels were selected for conversion into troop ships because "the work could be done on them with the greatest economy by initiating it early."

The luxury liner now scheduled for conversion will carry upwards of 12,000 troops while the three smaller ships will carry 2,500 to 3,000 troops each.

The 48,000-ton superliner, which is under construction at Newport News, Va., was to have been the largest and most luxurious vessel ever built in this country.

The government was putting up most of the $70,380,000 cost of the vessel.

The ship was to be named the "S. S. United States," but officials said it probably will be given another name for its military service.

The three smaller ships are under construction at Camden, N. J., with a planned cost of $10,671,000 each.

They were to have been named the President Hayes, President Adams and President Jackson; they also probably will be renamed.

The superliner is being constructed by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., while the other three are being built by the New York Shipbuilding Corp. These companies will continue the construction.

The maritime agencies said the government will have to make a settlement of its contracts with the shipping concerns for which the vessels were being built.

Propaganda Needed Against Communists

From the Far East come persistent reports that the anti-American propaganda of the communists is not being effectively countered. The communists seize on every fact which can be made to reflect adversely on America and exploit it to the full. When suitable half-truths are not available, they do not hesitate to employ pure inventions instead.

The communists pour out their propaganda unceasingly. It matters not whether they have something new to say or can only repeat what was said yesterday. They keep at it. They paint the United States as a warmonger keeping the world in turmoil. They call us the aggressor in Korea, and use stories of our military operations there to declare that we are destroying everything, bombing women and children and murdering innocent bystanders. They say we want to run the world, that the United Nations is our puppet, that we want Asia for exploitation and that we are opposed to freedom and self-government for Asian peoples.

The American answers to this constant tirade are woefully few and inadequate, if what is heard of the effect is accurate. Congress has been reluctant to vote substantial sums for propaganda operations, but the vastly greater sums for war and defense may be money poured down a rat-hole if we cannot gain and keep the friendship or at least the confidence of the people of the East. We are prone to think, on hearing some wild communist charge, that it is not worth dignifying with an answer. That is a tragic mistake. Their lies need answers.

Of all inappropriate names the Japanese term for Korea heads the list. It is Chosen, "the land of the morning calm." There has been little calm in Korea for many years and especially now, either in the morning or at any other time of day.

Fifty Whodunits

A writer who in 59 years has written 50 detective novels has hardly been idle. This is Agatha Christie, the publication of whose 50th mystery, "A Murder Is Announced," has been made something of a publishing event. Miss Christie's serio-comic Belgian detective, Hercule Poirot, who attains all his solutions through his "little gray cells," is familiar to addicts. What gives her stories a special claim to attention has been their extraordinary financial success. It has been estimated that, though Miss Christie is English, Americans have bought nearly 35,000,000 copies of her books, and that from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 have been sold all over the world. That must make the mouths water of those plodding novelists who are lucky if each work sells 3,000 copies.

The Christie books are generally masterly exemplifications of the shell game. The reader's attention is so well diverted that the real solution comes as a surprise. In her best-known book, "The Murder of Roger Ackroyd," her mystification was carried so far that readers are still debating whether she treated them fairly.

The fastidious who may scorn mysteries should be assured that Miss Christie can write good English as well as spin a yarn, and that these stories are the most moral of all novels. Their one lesson is that no matter how carefully the villain conceals his crime, he is sure to be found out.

It's too bad the subject of a fish story isn't able to hear how hard a fight he put up.

The German Choice

The fear is often expressed that if the Germans were allowed to rearm they might then join forces with the Russians and overrun all Western Europe. If this be the prospect, the Russians are doing their best to end it. They have done things which the Germans are not likely to forgive.

Among them are the annexation of East Prussia, including such old German cities as Koenigsberg and Stettin, the turning over to Poland of another large portion of the Eastern border, and the refusal to restore hundreds of thousands of German prisoners, who are undoubtedly ending their lives in the uranium mines or in Russian defense work.

The administration of the Russian zone of Berlin stands out in contrast with that of the sections ruled by the Allies. The Russians have been brutal and predatory, the Allies have governed with justice and consideration.

Suppose that the Germans were willing to overlook these great grievances, with whom would they find it safer to cast their lot? The Allies, even the French, propose merely to keep Germany from starting another aggressive war. The Russians obviously plan communist control, with all that that means, and eventual annexation. The Germans should be able to see the contrast.

Soft music is supposed to stir cows to give more milk, soothe patients on the operating table and perform similar feats. Does it still work when accompanied by the witticisms of a disk jockey?

Suppressing Confucius

Mao Tze-tung, the communist dictator of China, is reported to have ordered the destruction of the writings of Confucius as dangerous to Marxism. He is probably copying the procedures of Hitler and Stalin, but there also is Chinese precedent for him. In the second century B. C. the emperor Chi Hwang-ti, the builder of the Great Wall, wished to be remembered as the founder of Chinese civilization. He therefore ordered the destruction of the books written before his day, including those of Confucius. The order was imperfectly carried out, so that Confucius has survived to influence the Chinese ever since. No doubt, however, this act of suppression cost the world many other ancient books of interest, such as histories of the time, which would solve many historical problems.

Mao will have a far harder time of it than did Chi Hwang-ti. In the latter's day writings were preserved in only a few handwritten copies, mostly kept in temples. The printing press has now spread editions of Confucius far and wide, so that to root them all out, in China alone, would be a nearly impossible task.

The chief effect of Mao's edict will be to advertise Confucius, and possibly to restore Chinese interest in him, which is said to have been fading.

Some people love their country, and others love what their country can give them.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Fever With No Obvious Cause

ONE OF THE MOST expensive and difficult problems encountered by the medical profession is tracking down the origin of fever when no obvious cause exists. This is especially true in individuals with an elevated temperature who complain of headache, malaise, loss of weight, nervousness, and vague aches and pains.

To trace the source of this combination of symptoms often demands time, effort and study and taxes to the utmost the ingenuity of the physician. Furthermore, the syndrome is common and has even been given a name—"fever of undetermined or obscure origin."

There are more than 75 conditions to be considered, varying from nervousness to tumors and malignancies. This list does not include clearcut diseases such as meningitis, pneumonia, or quinsy sore throat. Here other symptoms and findings provide diagnostic assistance.

Since obscure fever suggests a hidden infection, the physician is likely to inquire about unusual symptoms or sore or tender areas. In his examination of the patient he proceeds carefully from the top of the head to the tips of the toes. He looks for little things because the chances are good that the cause will be suggested by an insignificant abnormality. Pinpoint hemorrhages on the inner aspect of the eyelid for example, may suggest a heart disorder (subacute bacterial endocarditis). Enlargement of a few of the glands in the neck or armpit may offer the clue that a more thorough study of the blood is in order, inasmuch as infectious mononucleosis and Hodgkins' disease are possibilities. Redness of the throat may signify a source of infection in this region that goes unrecognized because there is not enough swelling to produce actual soreness.

In the checkup the physician also utilizes many of his gadgets thru which he is able to visualize the interior of most of the body openings. This means the otoscope for the ears, the ophthalmoscope for the eyes, and other equipment necessary to study the nose and mouth. The rectum and urinary tract should never be omitted, because these structures are frequent sources of trouble. In men, the prostate is important not only as a source of fever but of infections such as those that induce inflammation of the eyes, bursae, joints, muscles, and nerves.

X-ray of the chest is absolutely essential because tuberculosis always is suspected in one whose temperature rises without adequate explanation. It is virtually impossible to detect the disease in any other way because in the early stages the telltale squeaks and rales may not be heard with the stethoscope. Other X-rays may be needed to complete the study but the decision should be left to the discretion of the physician. The plates are used to detect abscessed teeth, infected nasal sinuses or gall bladder, mastoid involvement, kidney disturbances, and tumors. Cancer produces fever because of its toxic action and its tendency to become infected.

Certain infections are notorious for manifesting themselves in an obscure manner. Tularemia [rabbit fever], brucellosis [undulant fever], trichinosis [pork worm disease], typhoid, and rheumatic fever belong in this category. These maladies require blood tests and an electrocardiogram and skin tests also may be necessary. Sometimes this is only the beginning and the search must continue on and on. When no abnormality can be found nervousness is implicated, more so if the individual shows an inclination along this line.

HEART SYMPTOMS

D. P. writes: Is a coronary spasm another name for angina pectoris?

REPLY

In the past, the two conditions were thought to be related but we know now that not all cases of angina pectoris are caused by spasm of the coronary arteries. In most instances, narrowing of these passageways is due to hardening of the arteries and the chest pain that is so characteristic of angina results from lack of blood to the heart muscle, regardless of the origin.

Truman Decided To Fire Johnson Four Weeks Ago; British Helped To Put Skids Under Louey; Friendship With Baruch Broke Camel's Back

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There were a good many reasons why Louey Johnson was fired as Secretary of National Defense. He was, of course, the victim of fate in the Korean war, and the President needed a political scapegoat.

But the most important reason, in the end, for Johnson's exit was that he never made a friend of his chief in the White House. Had he won Truman as a real friend, the President would have stuck by him through hell and high water—regardless of Korea, regardless of military blunders, and regardless of economy at the wrong time.

Truman has stuck by his friend Mon Wallgren, by his friend Dean Acheson, and by his late friend Tom Pendergast, despite all sorts of criticism. But Johnson was never a friend.

In fact, Truman never even trusted his Secretary of Defense. He knew that Johnson was playing ball with the Republicans, with his old enemy Bernard Baruch, and with others who played on the opposite political ball team. At one time the President complained to Senator Kilgore, who comes from Johnson's home state, West Virginia.

"In order to find out what Louey is up to, I have to read the Republican press and the Chicago Tribune."

Actually, the President's decision to fire Johnson was made four or five weeks ago. After making the decision, Truman told very few people, one of them being General Marshall. Incidentally, it was not until the past week that Marshall finally gave his assent.

Secretary Johnson didn't know he was on the skids till the White House called in Steve Early, the Undersecretary of Defense, to tell him they wanted his resignation a week earlier than Johnson's, so that Early would not be mixed up in Johnson's exit. But Johnson heard about it through Early's office, went down to the White House and handed in his resignation, thus beating the President to the gun.

Strengthening Acheson

Mr. Truman had planned to force the resignation at approximately this time, however, in order to have it coincide with the meeting of the Big Three foreign ministers in New York. This was deliberate strategy planned to strengthen Dean Acheson's hand.

Johnson's eyes were on the Pacific and the Far East, while Acheson considered Europe more important. And the Johnson resignation was a deliberate move planned to strengthen our European front.

In fact, at least two members of the North Atlantic Pact — Great Britain and France—had been unhappy over Johnson's leadership of European preparedness, and the British had made no bones about indicating their restlessness under the ebullient and brawny Louey.

British resentment against Johnson undoubtedly dates back to The Hague meeting of national defense ministers, where Johnson deliberately planted a story aimed against British War Secretary John Strachey. Newspaper accounts from The Hague carried the story that British and American defense ministers had arranged to have confidential reports sent direct to British Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell, thereby circumventing War Secretary Strachey because of his former left-wing connection.

The story was later denied. But it developed that the original story had been planted by Johnson personally with the Associated Press. In fact, the AP man sent a confidential memo to his office telling how Johnson personally had given him the story slapping down the British War Secretary.

Naturally, this got back to the British War Secretary, and the British have dropped hints from time to time since then that they could work more efficiently with someone other than Louey in our national defense post.

Other reasons why the President decided to fire his bouncing Secretary of Defense were:

1. JOHNSON'S KNIFE-IN-THE-BACK POLICY TOWARD ACHESON—At official conferences, Johnson pretended to be a great pal of Secretary Acheson. But the White House knew that he had been passing ammunition to GOP Senators Brewster and Wherry to aid their attacks. At conferences in the Pentagon, Johnson and his aides could not talk for ten minutes without dropping wisecracks against the State Department. It became an open scandal.

2. PROCRASTINATION IN THE PENTAGON—Ever since the Korean outbreak, President Truman has been begging Johnson for a strategic long-range defense plan. But the truth is, Johnson hasn't been able to get the Joint Chiefs of Staff to agree on even the requirements for the Korean war. They are still bickering over our defense planning, and the few points they agree on are usually rejected and sent back for revision by Johnson. Yet Johnson has concealed this confusion in the Pentagon with optimistic, misleading reports to the public.

General Bradley has been so fed up that he has been ready to resign, though as a good soldier he has tried hardest to follow Johnson's leadership.

3. JOHNSON'S TRUTHFULNESS?—Inside the Cabinet, Johnson had the reputation of being an incurable liar. Ex-Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall used the sharpest language to express this failing of Johnson's. "Johnson," he told friends, "hates the truth."

On one occasion specifically known to this writer, Steve Early lectured his boss like a schoolboy.

"You have got to learn that you can't lie," Early told Johnson. "You simply cannot lie. Especially you can't lie to newspapermen. You get found out."

4. JOHNSON'S GRANDIOSE PROMISES — Johnson guessed wrong at practically every turn. He saw silver linings where there were none. He told the public what he thought they wanted to hear. He preached economy before the Korean war when he thought the public wanted economy. His statement that the United States would be ready at 5 a. m. if Russia attacked at 4 a. m. was one he can never live down.

5. JOHNSON AND MacARTHUR—The White House became convinced that Johnson had something to do with General MacArthur's statement on Formosa. In the first place, Johnson was close to Gen. Julius Klein, a Chicago newspaperman who now heads Pan American Airways' public relations lobby and who has also been active in the "get Acheson" drive. Klein has been working with Senators Brewster, Wherry and Taft in the drive to boost MacArthur and fire Acheson. The White House received information that Johnson had been playing hand-in-glove with Brewster and Klein in regard to Formosa and other matters.

6. JOHNSON'S LEGAL COMMITMENTS—Before he entered the Cabinet, Johnson was personal attorney to H. H. Kung, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. The Kung family has heavy investments in the Philippines and Formosa, and Johnson was continually poking his finger in the State Department's pie in regard to these matters. He obtained the appointment of his old friend, Myron Cowan, to be ambassador to the Philippines, and never relented in his drive to have the U. S. intervene in Formosa — where the Kung-Soong families are now in exile.

7. BERNARD BARUCH—Believe it or not, it was Bernard Baruch who helped to tip the scales against Johnson, though inadvertently. The President, who has developed a bitter hatred for Baruch, learned that Johnson had been conferring with him. This was the last straw. The President's mind was made up after that.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

The Code Of Harry Truman

WASHINGTON.

WHAT is past is past, and there will be no dancing on the political grave of Louis Johnson in this space. But the process which led up to President Truman's dismissal of Johnson casts an interesting light on the future, and it is therefore worth describing. Truman's decision to replace Johnson with George C. Marshall was actually taken some ten days ago.

Until that time, Truman had no intention of dismissing Johnson. The President's loyalty to his subordinates is so fanatical that the fact that Johnson had given him disastrously bad advice carried no weight with him. Mere stupidity, however tragic its consequences, does not constitute an infringement of the truman code. But about ten days ago, Truman finally became convinced that Johnson had indeed violated the Truman code in two distinct ways.

In the first place, the President received overwhelming evidence, from sources which he trusted, that the reports that Johnson was under cutting Secretary of State Dean Acheson in order to protect himself, were true. In the second place, Truman also received evidence that since Korea Johnson had been privately preaching the inevitability of war, on Capitol Hill and elsewhere, and had been hinting broadly at preventive war. Indeed, the evidence clearly pointed to the conclusion that the preventive war speech of Navy Secretary Francis Matthews (the only one of the three secretaries who has been a Johnson man) was actually inspired by Johnson.

Truman Angered

The first point angered Truman, whose code demands loyalty returned for loyalty given. But the second point equally infuriated him, for rightly or wrongly, Truman still sincerely believes that general war can be avoided, and sincerely abominates preventive war talk. When Truman was at length convinced that the Truman code had been violated by Johnson on both counts, he made up his mind at once. He telephoned Marshall, and asked him to come to the White House.

Marshall had played little part in the speculation about Johnson's possible successor. But in fact Truman's turning to Marshall, whom he venerates, was almost instinctive in this situation. Marshall came privately to the White House towards the middle of last week, and was then reluctantly persuaded by the President to take the defense post. Johnson's suggestion of Marshall as a successor, contained in his letter to Truman, was of course merely an agreed device for putting as good a face as possible on what Truman called "terribly regrettable circumstances."

So much for the past. As for the future, certain conclusions are obvious. One is that Dean G. Acheson will be Secretary of State for as long as he wishes to remain. Another is that the MacArthur-Johnson policy for the Far East, which involved making Formosa a "permanent American base, is dead so far as this Administration is concerned. And another is that the assumption that war is inevitable, or that a preventive war is desirable, will play no part in the Truman Administration's policy-making.

Capable Advisers

Finally, there is another fact which the shadow cast by Louis Johnson has hitherto obscured.

Marshall Will Influence Many Cabinet Decisions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 — Implications of the appointment of General Marshall to be Secretary of Defense will not be realized for some time. His influence will dominate the Truman cabinet not only on military matters but on foreign policy.

Whilei t is true that Dean Acheson was undersecretary during the time General Marshall was secretary of state, this does not mean that these two men see eye to eye on world affairs. They are close friends and have much respect for each other. But it will be necessary to examine anew the influences that will be at work when Messrs. Acheson and Marshall are given free rein to shape both military and foreign policy together. This is an important area for collaboration. Messrs. Acheson and Johnson got into difficulties there.

It will soon apparent that Mr. Marshall will accept such proper limitations upon his department's activities as the state department may impose. This will introduce some delicate questions for the president to solve. General Marshall is the type of man who knows how to keep out of anybody else's jurisdiction. He is diplomatic and tactful to the extreme. If a matter is strictly that of the State Department, he will not interfere or volunteer his opinions unless asked. Conversely, where defense needs require a certain build-up of forces, it will take a very persuasive argument to deter him from getting the necessary forces located where they ought to be.

It is in the cabinet, where over-all policy will be discussed and where global points of view will have to be determined, that General Marshall will exert maximum influence. Indeed, the general was primarily responsible for the initial steps that led to the gradual abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek. He had no illusions about the communists in China and, while he differed with Chiang, he held no particular ill feeling against him. Yet when the time came for a major decision, General Marshall held that America could not become involved in China and that, if Chiang collapsed, it was just too bad.

The General's reasoning was the same as that he expressed repeatedly in wartime when he found himself compelled to refuse the requests of local commanders in various theatres of war for more and more troops and equipment while Europe remained the first consideration. General Marshall had to pacify General MacArthur and Admiral King as again and again he insisted that it was necessary to beat Hitler first and tackle Japan on a total basis afterward.

Today the communists are trying hard to involve America in a war with China. General Marshall has his eyes fixed on Europe as our first concern. His viewpoint is in accord, to be sure, with that of the state department that everything should be done to avoid further involvement in China. But it is doubtful whether the general would sanction any policy which looks toward our withdrawal from Korea and admission of the Chinese communists to the security council as a program of appeasement.

Nor would the administration venture to adopt such a program, at least until after the North Koreans have been driven back to the 38th parallel. Such weighty questions as these, as well as matters concerning the rearming of Europe, will come up in the cabinet. When there are varying views expressed, it is a safe bet that the president will adopt the suggestions on policy given by General Marshall. He will stiffen the president against Russia if any stiffening is ever needed.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward General Marshall is one of awe born of tremendous admiration. It is being said metaphorically in the capital that the president thinks General Marshall, in wisdom, is "next to God." This gives some idea of the power that Genera. Marshall may wield on American policies in the next few months.

There are some people in the capital, however, who do not think General Marshall's mission to China, for example, was a success and that, while he was conscientious in his endeavors, he lacked the imagination to formulate a sound policy for America in the Far East This will be debated for many years to come.

One thing is clear — nobody questions the judgment General Marshall exhibited as a war commander or his remarkable faculty of selling Congress his ideas of what is needed for a military program.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Acheson's Victory

Dean Acheson, Secretary of State, has won an outstanding political victory against his arch-enemy in the administration, Louis Johnson. Their quarrel has been continuous since Louis Johnson became Secretary of Defense. It has been intense, positive, with no holds barred.

Many factors entered into the antagonism:

1. The Department of Defense and the State Department overlap in the sense that the latter forms the policy which the former must implement. For instance, it was the State Department which forgot to arrange for an entrance to or an exit from the American zone in Berlin, except through Russian territory.

But the Department of Defense had speedily and at great cost to conduct the Berlin airlift.

It was the State Department which bungled our relations with Asiatic countries.

But it is the Department of Defense that has to fight the war in Korea.

Unless the State Department, the Department of Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the President are as one as to policy, there must be quarrels over responsibility. These have occurred constantly, particularly as the Department of Defnse is expected by the public to keep expenses down when there is no fighting and yet always to be ready, no matter how difficult the State Department may make the situation.

2. Information reaches both departments from many sources, including their own. Army and Navy Intelligence may provide different data from State Department data and from Central Intelligence Agency data.

The collection of information is not too difficult; the appraisal of such information, however, involves experience, knowledge, background and judgment. Military men, fresh from war experience, are likely to differ in judgment from Washington desk-sitters.

Furthermore, it cannot be denied that our military men have never been famous for their respect for those in the State Department, whom they call cookie-pushers.

Louis Johnson took a pro-Chiang Kai-Shek position regarding China—a position which has proved itself to be correct by the Korean war, and one which General Douglas MacArthur, in the field, fully supported.

Dean Acheson took a pro-Chinese communist position, obviously on two grounds:

A. That it would be too costly to support an anti-communist position in Asia and at the sametime protect Western Europe, which he regarded as more essential;

B. Roosevelt had originated the appeasement policy at Tehera; it has never been reversed by order of the President, and therefore it is the duty of the State Department to continue to carry it out until instructed otherwise.

No matter how antagonistic one may be toward Dean Acheson and his peculiarities, this must be regarded as his position, Louis Johnson opposed that position, believing and he has proved to be correct that the communist breakout would come in Asia before it would come in Europe.

Knowing that that was his attitude, last April, at a private dinner attended by a large number of editors and publishers, I asked him if, in the event of a communist seizure of Formosa, the United States would be prepared to meet the consequences. My question, a little more intricately stated, was designed to give Johnson an opportunity to tell them in this large gathering what I knew he was saying privately, namely, that the State Department policy was making the situation impossible. He dodged the question altogether.

3. Temperamentally, Acheson and Johnson were incompatible. Acheson has the polish of an Englishman, suave, smooth, slick and oblique. He can say in 500 or 600 words what most of us could conclude by a "yes," a "no," or a "maybe." To straight-shooters, his circumlocutions can be tantalizing. He covers his errors with brilliant briefs which come down to the letter of the law or of his instructions. Someone else always originated the error.

Johnson is free of tongue. His temper is not of the smoothest and even the long experience of his under-secretary, Steve Early, could not save him from litting out sharply when smoothies vould have counted not 10 but 1,000 He made enemies by telling the truth as he saw it. Unable to compromise when public opinion, which is often wrong on intricate problems, an unwillingness to lie to gain popularity, he became a liability to Harry Truman, whose outlook on great affairs is narrowly political and partisan.

So, Louis Johnson was ditched. To suggest that he wanted to quit is to go beyond the facts. He was fired!

and void and unconstitutional under the Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act and under the general equity powers of the court.

The bill of complaint was filed by Harold Buchanan, the state Progressive Party's executive secretary, and Mitchell A. Dubow, both of Baltimore. Two other attorneys, I. Duke Avnet and William H. Murphy, also of Baltimore, are entered on the papers as co-counsel in the action.

The ordinance passed its third and final reading before the Mayor and City Council September 5, with one of the largest crowds ever seen at a Council meeting in attendance.

Action Is Unanimous

Council acted unanimously after hearing arguments by a score or more representing veterans groups and other patriotic organizations.

The law gave Communists residing within the city limits until September 15 at midnight to register at police headquarters, with failure to register invoking arrest and a penalty of $10 to $100 fine or 10 to 30 days in jail, with each day of failure to register to be considered a separate violation.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir said last night that his deputies had notified each member of the council, the mayor, police commissioner, chief of police and city solicitor of the Court action and proper summonses had been served by 5 p. m.

named "William". Six men have the given name of "Charles." There are five with the name "John" and one "Jonathan." Five others have the given name "James." "George" and "Thomas" appear three times each while there are two "Wilburs," one "Fred" and one "Frederick," "Peter" and 'Paul" appear once each. There are two "Edwards," and 'Edwin" and an 'Edgar," so it might be said "Ed" is on the ballot four times.

With all the 78 candidates listed on the two ballots the name of only one woman appears. She is a Republican, Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown of Baltimore City, candidate for attorney general. Her opponent is William A. Gunter, this city, one of the 10 "Bills" on the list.

Interest in the primary, so far as the Republican party is concerned, seems to center in the eight-man race for the three county commissioner seats; the three-man race for state's attorney and the two-man race for clerk of court.

The sheriff, Edward R. Muir, is the first sheriff to be a candidate to succeed himself, as the law was changed making this possible a couple of years ago.

The length of the ballots and the time it will take to count two ballots is expected to delay the returns a few hours longer than usual.

A reasonably heavy primary vote anticipated because of the interest that seems to be developing, will make the final unofficial tabulation an "early Tuesday morning" proposition, in many polling places.

With Lane Allegany County got $10,094,236 of State aid
(Total for county and towns)
The people in the counties of Maryland know what Lane's program has meant to the workers and farmers all over our state.
They know that with Lane we have had the money to build the new schools, new hospitals, and new roads our state needed. They know that with Lane we have paid our way as we went along. And they know that this money which Lane has sent back to the counties during his administration is money that the counties did not have to raise on their local tax rates.

Detroit Again Swaps Places With Yankees

Tigers Regain Lead, By Winning, 9-7; Mize Belts Three Homers

DETROIT, Sept. 15 (INS)—Detroit fought back twice today, defeated the New York Yankees 9 to 7 and regained first place in the American League despite three home runs by Johnny Mize.

The Tigers' triumph boosted them a half a game ahead of the Yanks.

Mize single-handedly kept the New Yorkers in the game as he drove in six runs with his three consecutive homers.

But Jerry Priddy's two-run homer, extra base hits by Hoot Evers and Vic Wertz and Hank Borowy's sterling relief pitching brought Detriot the victory. The one-time Yankee hurler relieved starter Art Houtteman in the sixth and blanked New York the rest of the way. Borowy gave up only one hit in the four innings.

The Yanks scored three times in the first inning when Joe DiMaggio doubled Yogi Berra home and Mize homered. The Tigers came back with two on Priddy's four-base smash.

Mize socked another home run to start the fourth and came through with a third in the fifth inning with Cliff Mapes and DiMaggio on base.

The Tigers capitalized on two mental lapses by the Yanks in the third to score three runs. They added another in the fifth and tallied three times in the sixth to win the game on three singles, a walk, an outfield fly and Wertz's double. Box:

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Sept. 15 — Moorefield High School suffered its second defeat of the 1950 football season today, losing to Green Bank High School at the latter place by the score of 12-7.

The Pocahontas countians scored both of their touchdowns in the second period. A 90-yard march produced the first six-pointer. After McLaughlin returned Meyers' kick from the Green Bank 4 to 10, the home team reeled off four first downs which carried to the Moorefield 28. Bosley passed to McLaughlin on the 18 and the latter raced to the 1. On the next play, McLaughlin smashed over for the initial score.

Bosley's pass to W. Sutton who snared the ball on the Moorefield 40 and ran to the end zone gave Green Bank a 12-0 advantage at intermission.

Moorefield's score came in the third period. The Jackets launched their drive by recovering Bosley's fumble on his own 25. Vance circled right end to the 20. Gene Baldwin cracked center for eight yards and Vance went off right tackle for the td. Baldwin smashed center for the extra point.

Ted Williams Gets Four Hits As Boston Wins

Belts 3-Run Homer, Browns Lose, 12-9

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15 (AP)—Ted Williams returned to action and demonstrated his physical fitness today by slamming out four hits, including a three-run homer, as the pennant-seeking Boston Red overpowered the St. Louis Browns 12-9.

Thus Steve O'Neill's musclemen advanced to within one and a half-lengths of the Detroit Tigers, who took first place by downing New York.

Williams, highest-paid player in baseball, had seen action only as a pinch batter since he fractured his left elbow in the July All-Star game at Chicago. He had three singles to go with his homer in six trips.

Manager O'Neill, jubilant in the clubhouse after the game, said Williams should be credited for the important victory.

Joe Dobson was knocked out by a three-run Brownie uprising in the sixth, but was credited with the victory, his 15th against eight defeats. Don Johnson, the starting Brownie pitcher, was charged with his sixth loss against five victories.

Williams' homer over the right field pavilion, with Dobson and Billy Goodman on base, was his 26th of the season and highlighted a six-run outburst in the sixth, breaking a 2-2 deadlock. Box:

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (INS)—Pitcher Johnny Klippstein doubled and Hal Jeffcoat singled in the tenth inning today to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-to-3 decision over the New York Giants.

The triumph was the Cubs' first over the Giants since June 17. Only 2,860 fans paid to see the contest, and it was just as well from the Giants' standpoint.

Two homers by Eddie Stanky and one by Hank Thompson did all the Giant scoring off Warren Hacker in the first two innings. Thereafter, Hacker, Dutch Leonard and Klippstein stranded 11 runners as they blanked the Giants. Box:

Parsons Downs Masontown High Grid Team, 13-0

Phil Wolfe, Harry Good Register TDs

PARSONS, W. Va., Sept. 15 — Parsons High School's Panthers nosed out at Clarksburg by Victory High a week ago, gained an even break in their first two games away from home by taking Masontown High School into camp today by the score of 13-0.

Coach Carl Schoonover's eleven scored touchdowns in the second and third periods to ice the game. The initial td came on a plunge from the one-yard line by Phil Wolfe. Lyle Loughry smashed over the extra point. Harry Good accounted for the second six-pointer by plunging for the final three yards.

Parsons racked up 10 first downs to seven for Masontown.

Browns, Eagles Open NFL Season Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15 (AP) — "The Eagles may chase us off the gridiron but we'll be on hand for the game with no alibies," declared Coach Paul Brown today as he led his Cleveland Browns into town for the world series of professional football tomorrow night.

The game, matching the two-time champions of the National Football League — the Philadelphia Eagles — and the Browns, four-times master of the defunct All-America Conference, will be played in Municipal Stadium. The kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

If the weather remains fair perhaps 90,000 people will sit in for the most talked of game in the National Football League's history. The Eagles management reported today the money from more than 60,000 customers was in the till.

As Brown's stalwarts took their first look at the stadium turf in a brief workout, they found themselves a three-point underdog. The Eagles were favored by seven and one-half points until they dropped a 10-3 decision Sunday to the Chicago Bears — the team the Browns nosed out 27-24.

The Browns, making their debut in the NFL, are in the best of shape physically but the news they received from the Eagles' camp was not encouraging.

Dropkicker Simmons Is Classified 4-F

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP) — West Virginia University's football hopes got a boost today to offset the bad news of injuries.

Dropkicker Gene Simmons of Elkins returned to training camp with the information he had been classified 4-F because of a slight heart murmur. The trouble dates back to a childhood attack of rheumatic fever.

Simmons, who does little but dropkick for the West Virginia squad, underwent a draft physical examination at Fairmont yesterday.

A senior, he made good on 29 of 37 conversion attempts in 1948 and counted two field goals — one of them the margin of a victory over Maryland. Last year he made good on 29 of 33 tries for the point after touchdown.

Swanton Wins, 7-1

Swanton defeated Bittinger in a Mountain Top Baseball League game yesterday by the score of 7-1. Darkness halted the game at the end of the 5th inning. Bill Sweitzer led the Swanton batsmen with a triple, double and single. Score:

SWANTON	7
BITTINGER	1

Michaels and Sweitzer; J. Buckel and Stanton.

Museum Scientists Visit Area In Garrett County

OAKLAND,—Scientists from Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh have set out on a trail that is thousands of years old, in an attempt to find vital information about modern man's predecessors in the upper Ohio valley. The only area in Maryland being visited is Garrett County.

The program will cover a three-year period. William J. Mayer-Oakes, the museum's field archeologist, and three other persons have been in Garrett County the past 10 days and have been doing research around Friendsville.

Assisting him is F. R. Corliss, Jr., formerly of this area, now a student at Penn State. He has located some 25 sites or villages of Indian tribes which will be investigated for important relics.

Oakes was hopeful that long-time residents of the county would be able to give him valuable leads in his search for early records. While here last week the group made a test on the farm of Karol Rush in the Friendsville section to determine the type of deposit to be found there.

Museum officials have indicated the most definite information found has been uncovered in the McKees Rocks section near Pittsburgh.

Directing the entire program will be Oakes, a research archeologist with experience in survey and excavation work for the University of Chicago and the Smithsonian Institute.

Potomac School Starts Classes

KEYSER, W. Va.—Potomac State School of West Virginia University began class work for the 1950-51 school year with approximately 100 less students on opening day than was shown last year. The enrollment, as of Friday, was 202 freshmen and 194 sophomores for a total enrollment of 396. Dean K. S. McKee said, in announcing the figures for this year, that he believes this year's total will be increased by late enrollees during the coming week. "A year ago," the dean said, "the enrollment was increased to 500 by the end of the second week."

The dean believes that the war plans have caused many young men to wait, believing that they will be called into service, and it is no use to enter school perhaps for only a short time before being called into the service. "I am confident however," he concluded, "that we'll hear from more students within the next few days."

Pays $5 Fine

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 (INS)—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in New York with Mary Lee and the children, will confer with Sam Katzman, Columbia producer, already on his way east. They'll discuss "The Caballero," and Doug will be offered the lead in what was once his own property.

The story, by Johnston McCully, author of "The Mark of Zorro," which starred Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., has the same adventurous zest that made "Zorro" so popular.

"State Secret," which Doug made in Italy with Glynis Johns, is being released by Columbia. So, it's dollars to doughnuts Doug, who wants to stay in his own country for a spell, will accept Katzman's offer.

My daughter, Harriet Parsons, who has been having a check up at Scripps Clinic, tells me that Red Skelton has taken off six pounds.

"The only time Red has been away from the clinic," Harriet says, "is when he and I had a cup of coffee with his wife, Georgia, who is staying at the Casa Manana.

"Eating away from the clinic is absolutely forbidden, and Red is sticking to his schedule and looks very well."

I remember that John Edgar Hoover, who was a patient at Scripps when I was in Del Mar and came often to the races, kept the clinic regulations.

Chit-chat: There has been some criticism about Ava Gardner playing Julie in "Show Boat." Not that Ava wouldn't look the part and act it, too—but her voice certainly wouldn't be comparable to that of Helen Morgan's. Now that there has been so much talk about Ava singing, it would always be suspected that her voice was dubbed.

I'm wondering why Dorothy Lamour wouldn't be very good as Julie? She has a lovely singing voice, she can act, and she's popular. Helen Morgan was her idol and she's always wanted to do Morgan's life. At least, I would like to see her make a test.

Francesca De Scaffa, the girl who is marrying Bruce Cabot Sunday, told me, "I am not Portuguese. My mother, she is French and Chilean. I was born in Venezuela and educated in Paris. My father, he is Hindu."

"What does that make you?" I asked.

"Well, not Portuguese," she said. Francesca says she is happy because she loves Hollywood and as Mrs. Cabot she will live here.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Congratulations to the Bud Abbots who celebrate their 32nd wedding anniversary Sunday with a big party at their home. Bud is ten years older than his comedy sidekick, Lou Costello, but doesn't look it.

Marilyn Johnston, pretty dancer, has gone to Billings, Montana, to see Forrest Tucker on location. She and Tucker are planning to marry in January.

Gloria De Haven, called to Los Angeles by the sudden death of her mother, is back at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas. They tell me the first night she went on and gave a terrific show, carrying on the old tradition of "the show must go on."

Lou Clayton's heart would have been warmed by the great success of the first record Jimmy Durante and Eddie Jackson, his two pals and partners in vaudeville, made together. They recorded "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home," now a big seller. Well, nobody deserves success more than Jimmy Durante, who, for my money, is one of the sweetest characters in the whole world.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

You can mold your figure as you wish, yet get the foods that promote lovely skin and hair with the Powers diet!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

VARIETY is the spice of a meal, but a meal should not be too spicy! Whether you desire to lose or gain weight, foods should be moderately seasoned, buttered and sugared. While this is especially important for the reducer, it's a safeguard for the sturdy health and lovely complexions of the entire family.

Today's "Beauty Diet" and the five preceding ones not only make it possible for you to control your figure, gain or lose at will, but they also give you the balanced, tempting foods that promote health, sparkle and beauty. If you missed the other menus, or would like additional ones, send a letter to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin to help cover costs. In addition to twelve days of keyed menus, you will receive a caloric counter for each of the days to help you in planning similar menus yourself.

Here are the keys to figure control for use with today's beauty menu for the whole family: Foods plussed (+) are for the underweight adult and the normal adolescent only. Foods crossed (X) must be eliminated for losing weight. Foods minused (—) must be halved in quantity to lose. For maintaining present weight follow the basic menu, omitting snacks.

It is a good habit to wipe the telephone mouthpiece with a suday cloth every day when you do the dusting. The soap has a disinfecting action that helps to prevent spreading the common cold or other diseases.

The Gautemala fly-catcher plant has been known to trap as many as 200 flies in one bloom.

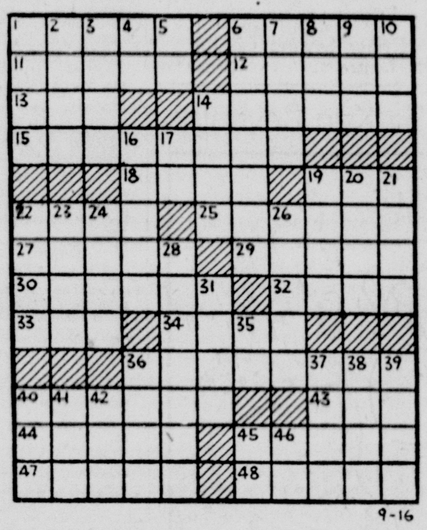
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

This is that on the military and foreign policy front a remarkably strong team has been a-building. In the White House itself, Truman now has two extremely capable advisers, W. Averell Harriman and Sidney Souers, both of whom are trusted implicitly not only by Truman but by the State Department and throughout the Administration.

In the vital intelligence field, the very able Bedell Smith will soon take over as C.I.A. chief. In the Pentagon, Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Finletter and Secretary of the Army Frank Pace have already registered real successes, and in Under Secretary John McCone, Finletter has a particularly able deputy. Stuart Symington is well qualified to run the defense effort on the home front, particularly in his almost magical ability to deal with a recalcitrant Congress.

Finally, it is highly probable that Marshall will ask Robert A. Lovett to become his Under Secretary of Defense—Lovett may already have been appointed when these words appear in print. Marshall, Acheson and Lovett have the utmost confidence in each other, and have long been accustomed to working in harness. This will mean a State and Defense Department no longer eyeing each with mutual beady-eyed suspicion, and working constantly at cross purposes, but working instead intimately together to promote American security.

In short, at least in the foreign and defense field, what may be in prospect is something that this country has not known for at least a year and a half—disinterested leadership. It may turn out to be a miracle, but in view of the night-marish atmosphere of Washington in recent months, this prospect is rather like the sight of an oasis in a desert to a man dying of thirst. Thus at least there is good reason to be thankful to Louis Johnson for violating the code of Harry Truman.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISTRIBUTION DECISIVE

High cards are nice things to have—plenty of them. But the more dependable commodity, when you have enough of it, is distribution. Freakish long suits balanced with singletons or voids can sometimes ruin the finest-looking contracts. The converse of that is what occasionally happens to a pair that thinks it can beat the other side's contract just because it has a lot of high cards, whereas actually the freak distribution causes the honors to shrink almost to nothing in value.

(Dealer: North; North-South vulnerable).

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♦
3 ♠	4 ♦	4 NT	5 ♦
5 ♥	6 ♦	6 ♠

In their efforts to impede, the not vulnerable East and West even tried to block response to South's Blackwood 4-No Trumps. But West's 5-Diamonds could not keep North from showing his single ace. A pass would have betokened none, whereas the lowest legal bid over the 5-diamonds, 5-Hearts, showed me. After East then made what he intended as a sacrifice bid of 6-Diamonds, South refused to keep from the slam and bid the 6-Spades with confidence.

Ordinarily that confidence would have been justified, in view of the cards held by North and South. Indeed, some optimists might have tried for 7-Spades with those holdings if there had been no hostile bidding. As it was, with the missing four spades all in West's hand, even the 6-Spades proved impossible. South could not have kept West from two tricks with that holding, no matter what he did.

But here's the funny thing about that crazy deal—East's bid of 6-Diamonds would not have proved a sacrifice at all if South had let him play it, either doubling it or just passing—the latter being unthinkable. East could merely cross-ruff the hand until clubs were established and would lose only to the ace of trumps. Summed up, the weak side could take 12 tricks, though holding only one king and no aces, while the strong side could take only 11 with four aces and three kings.

Your Weekend Question

Can you give a definition of false-carding? Do you feel sure that you understand the fundamental purpose of it?

Market Hits New High Since 1946 Despite Heavy Sales

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—The stock market plowed through heavy profit taking sales again today and closed at a new high since June 1946.

News of the successful landing of United Nations troops far behind North Korean lines set in motion strong cross currents which muddied the market's action a good part of the day.

Toward the close a clearer pattern appeared: So-called peace stocks moved ahead smartly while familiar war babies made only slow progress.

Radio-television issues attracted strong support through the day. In late dealings automobile issues came to the front. Improvement in these two groups gave the entire market a shot in the arm.

Gains outnumbered losses at the close by a fair margin. Price changes for run-of-the-mill issues were limited mostly to $1 a share of less but some popular stocks climbed more.

Business topped the 2,000,000-share mark for the third day in a row. Sales of 2,410,000 shares compared with 2,350,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .3 of one point to 81.7. This compared with the 1946 peak of 82.4, a level not touched earlier since 1931.

Radio Corp. headed the most active list with a gain of ¾ at 18. International Telephone took second place, up ⅝ at 12¾.

Also ahead in the TV section were Admiral, up 1¼ at 28½; Emerson, ⅝ at 17¼; Philco, 1⅛ at 41⅝; Zenith, 2½ at 53½; and Motorola, 1¼ at 46⅛.

Sinclair Oil was an outstanding loser, declining ⅜ to 31. Pressure stemmed from disappointment over the usual dividend announced late yesterday. An extra or increase payment had been widely expected.

General Motors moved up 1 to 94½, Chrysler ½ to 71¾, Studebaker ¼ to 31¼, and Hudson Motors ½ to 16¾.

Commies Fail To Register; Face Arrest

Police Action Likely Today

Communist Party members residing in Cumberland let the midnight deadline pass without registering as required by a City Ordinance and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said "we intend to weed them out."

Flynn's statement left little doubt but that "known" members of the party residing in the city will be sought out and placed under arrest for trial under the ordinance.

The ordinance passed unanimously by the Mayor and City Council September 5 requires all communists residing in Cumberland to register with police under penalty of fine or jail sentence.

Seek Court Rule

Earlier in the day two admitted communists and a third man who believes the ordinance "concerns the life, liberty and property of himself and all citizens of Cumberland," filed a suit in Circuit Court asking that the ordinance be nullified.

Associate Judge George Henderson acting on the suit signed a "show cause" order requiring the Mayor and City Council to appear in Court September 30, but said it in no way affected the status of the ordinance.

Commenting on the action, Chief Flynn said "my plans are to go ahead and Commissioner of Police John J. Long, who introduced the motion for the ordinance backed Flynn with:

"The ordinance regarding communists was passed unanimously by the Mayor and City Council. Enforcement is the duty of the Police Department. As a freedom-loving American, as well as police commissioner it is my privilege to see that the law is enforced to the letter."

Flynn indicated that he will order his department into action after daylight today in an effort to round up all members of the Communist Party residing in Cumberland.

Police "Know Reds"

He said "there are communists in Cumberland that are known to the police and we intend to weed them out." The Chief mentioned no names nor gave any clue to the method of identification used by police.

At police headquarters the department was prepared to register any person who appeared up until midnight with the intention of complying with the ordinance.

Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney said after the deadline passed that none had appeared during the night.

The ordinance gave the party members 10 days to comply with the city law.

Failure to comply with the ordinance and conviction on such a charge carries a penalty of fine up to $100 or 30 days in jail for default of payment of such fine.

Such charges would be preferred and tried in Police Court.

Tunnel Started Under Railroad

A tunnel is being constructed under the B. and O. Railroad tracks' extending from a tunnel parallel to Williams Street to a diversion manhole on the other side where there is an old 48 inch brick sewer.

The purpose of the new tunnel is to divert sewage from the old conduit to the new one on Williams Street, which will eventually terminate at a proposed pumping station behind Hazelwood yard.

Progress should be speeded with the double shifts which began Thursday night. The tunnel itself was started September 11, and propress has been almost four feet a day.

George and Lynch is the general contractor, but the work on the tunnel is being done by a subcontractor, Armco Method.

A line plate, 72 inches in diameter, is placed in the tunnel every 16 inches. After the entire tunnel has been excavated, the pipe is inserted and the excess space filled with cement and sand.

Hay Acquitted In Auto Death

Walter E. Hay, Berlin, Pa., was acquitted yesterday of a charge of manslaughter by automobile in the death of 10-year-old Elmer S. Caton, victim of an automobile accident on Finzel Road September 5.

Trial Magistrate J. U. Stanton, Grantsville, gave the "not guilty" verdict yesterday after hearing testimony by six witnesses when the case was brought before him by Garrett County State's Attorney Dwight S. Stover.

Magistrate Stanton said he could find no evidence of "gross negligence" on the part of Hay, whose car struck young Caton as he ran down the road near his home.

The child was pronounced dead upon arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Hay posted bond of $500 following his appearance before Stanton the day after the accident. The bond was refunded yesterday.

E. Ray Jones, Oakland attorney represented Hay and Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland attorney represented the victim's family at the hearing.

All is in readiness for the fourth annual Cumberland Horse Show which will get underway this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Fair Grounds.

Approximately 250 entries have been made and the show is expected to be "one of the finest in the east" this year, according to William R. Carscaden, secretary.

Summer Play Season In City Officially Ends

The summer playground season ended officially yesterday with the closing of five major playgrounds, those at West Side, East Side, North End, Post and Penn Avenue.

Those playgrounds will open early next year, with May 15 set as the date, according to City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey.

The five areas were open for a 20-week season this year as compared to the 10 weeks for smaller playgrounds. Organized programs at the latter ended three weeks ago.

Prior to establishment of the City Recreation Department, customary practice was to open the playgrounds after school ended in June, and close them before Labor Day.

Heavy apparatus such as swings is being left on all playgrounds.

Equipment on playgrounds at schools will be taken down and stored at the discretion of the principals, while that on other playgrounds will remain out at the discretion of the respective playground associations.

Smaller items such as bats and balls have already been stored, however.

Meanwhile, Hoey released a report on the season's activities at West Side Playground, prepared by Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, playground director there.

Average daily attendance at West Side was 250, while total registration amounted to 317.

Special evening events, including square dances and movies, attracted crowds from 300 to 600 persons.

Other playground events ranged from a weekly radio show to a hobo party and various contests.

In previous years, residents of the West Side area had complained of profane language and poker playing at the playgrounds.

The former has been reduced to a minimum and the latter has been eliminated, Mrs. Hogan said in her report.

"The children were given responsibilities and made to feel the playground was theirs to care for," she wrote. "Dispositions and attributes were changed by giving a full-time program. Busy hands keep minds employed."

Objectives for the 1951 season, include increasing the program, cleaning grounds and repairing the fence, obtaining a larger building and enlarging the blacktop area for tennis Mrs. Hogan said.

Council Chamber To Be Painted

For the first time in many years, the Council Chamber at City Hall is due to get a face-lifting.

This was reported yesterday by Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

Walls and ceiling of the room will be painted a peach shade and woodwork will be painted a cream color. Venetian blinds will be installed.

Work will get underway Tuesday morning and painting is expected to be finished in time for the following Monday night's council session.

Mrs. Roeder said comparative prices were obtained from eight firms and individuals, and the work was awarded to those offering the lowest prices.

Raymond Messmer will be in charge of the painting work and the Venetian blinds will be furnished by the Builders Paint and Supply Company.

City Hall officials were unable to say exactly how long it has been since the council chamber was painted, although they recalled that the walls and woodwork were cleaned about 10 years ago.

Social Security Benefits Show Marked Increase

Total Payments To Be Nearly Double

Here is what happened to old-age and survivors insurance in the Cumberland area when the 1950 amendments to the Social Security Act become effective.

All monthly insurance checks now being paid to the 3,188 social security beneficiaries in the seven counties administered by the Cumberland Field Office will be raised substantially, beginning with the September checks, according to James S. Getty, manager of the local office.

Getty explained that these automatic increases, for September, are scheduled to reach local beneficiaries during the first week of October.

Increases will range from about 50 to about 100%. For example, the average benefit of approximately $26 per month for a retired worker will be increased to about $46. A widow with two children who had been receiving $55 a month will now receive about $100 altogether.

Getty said that under the old terms of the Social Security law the 2,188 beneficiaries in Allegany County would have received a total of about $42,339 for the month of September.

Under the new increases, however, total payments for September for this county are estimated to be about $77,268, or an immediate increase of some $34,929 monthly in insurance benefits.

Army Reserve Units Obtain Armory Space

Lease Signed For Footer Premises

Army Reserve units of the Cumberland area will have a new armory by November 1.

This was announced yesterday by Capt. H. W. Trimble, unit instructor.

The officer reported that a lease was signed yesterday with John "Peg" Stewart, representing the Merchandise Mart, Inc., for space on the third floor of the Howard Street wing of the Footer Building.

Extensive alterations will get underway Monday, with cost estimated at $12,000.

Stewart will have the work done at his own expense and with no increase in the nominal rental figure, Capt. Trimble said.

The armory quarters measure 8,000 square feet, or 215 by 38 feet.

Offices Planned

Separate offices will be provided for each of the six Army Reserve units.

They are Headquarters 2447th Logistical Command; 372nd M. P. Company; Company G, 319 Parachute Infantry; 942nd Ordnance Explosive Disposal Platoon; Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 398th Ordnance Battalion; and the 729th Army Postal Unit.

Each unit also will have its own supply room and "strong room," where arms and other critical items will be kept.

Capt. Trimble said high carbon steel mesh will be used in constructing the walls and ceilings of the six strong rooms, which will have special doors and locks.

An office will be provided for Capt. Trimble and his staff.

Two large training areas will also be included on the premises, one measuring about 2,000 square feet and the other about 1,400 square feet.

They will be so situated, Capt. Trimble said, that training and drill sessions can be conducted in both at the same time.

Both training areas will be wired so motion pictures and other training aids can be used.

Antenna Planned

Transmitting and receiving radio equipment is already on hand and ready for installation. An antenna will be erected so direct communication by voice or code messages will be possible with Maryland Military District headquarters in Baltimore.

Asphalt tile flooring will be installed and fluorescent lights will be used throughout.

At the start, 125 individual lockers will be installed for the men, as well as toilet facilities and showers.

Specifications are complete down to arms racks, shelving in storage rooms, blackboards and bulletin boards, and mechanical water coolers.

Capt. Trimble said the one-year lease is effective November 1, with an option for renewal.

It was signed yesterday by Sidney D. Beck, who with T. H. Becker and Emerson Hardman, all representatives of the Washington District office of the Army Engineers, surveyed the building.

Plans were drawn up by the local Army Reserve office following a visit here last April by Col. Arthur L. Shreve, chief of the Maryland Military District, who noted the need for more space and directed that steps be taken to acquire adequate quarters.

At present Capt. Trimble and his staff are occupying an office on the second floor of the Union Street Building. Unit meetings and training sessions are conducted in an adjoining office.

"Camporee" To Begin Today

At least 200 boys from six area counties are expected to attend the annual Boy Scout "Camporee" to be held today and tomorrow at Potomac Scout Camp near Oldtown.

The event, sponsored by Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will get underway this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will end tomorrow afternoon.

Willis V. Smith, council executive, said arrangements are in charge of the camping and activities committee headed by Ross Decker.

Potomac Council includes Scout groups in Allegany and Garrett Counties and the West Virginia counties of Mineral, Hampshire, Hardy and Grant.

The camp will be conducted on a patrol basis, with the units doing their own cooking and providing their own equipment.

Patrols will be graded on camp skills and ribbons will be awarded at the closing ceremonies tomorrow.

A campfire program is scheduled tonight. Religious services will be conducted at the camp tomorrow morning for Protestant Scouts, while boys of the Catholic faith will be taken to St. Mary's Church to attend services.

News In Brief

The Beverly a cappella choir from Pingwood, W. Va., will sing at the Metropolitan A.M.E. Church, corner of Frederick and Decatur Streets, at 7:30 tomorrow evening. The program is sponsored by the Young Men's Club. Everyone is welcome.

Liquor Board To Meet

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board has postponed its regular meeting scheduled for Tuesday until September 26.

The Weather

A little rain yesterday frightened a few people who were caught out without umbrellas, but the shower was so brief that no one was drenched. It was a pleasant day after all with a high temperature of 70 degrees in Constitution Park and a high of 73 degrees downtown. The respective lows were 58 degrees in the park and 62 degrees downtown. Today might be partly cloudy, but cooler and a bit windy.

Flood Workers Find Old Graves Under Valley St.

Rain Washes Up Three Caskets

Three old caskets were uncovered by heavy rains Wednesday at a detention dam now being constructed at the head of Valley Street, as part of the flood control project according to Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer.

Although the caskets have deteriorated somewhat, the bones are still in them, he reported.

No gravemarkers have been noticed in the area except one the contractor uncovered during the early part of March bearing the inscription, "Mary E. Straub, Died February 27, 1889, Age 21 Years, 9 Months, 16 Days."

It is not known whether this marker has any connection with the bones and casket that have been found but it was excavated in the same area, Dickson said.

The Army Engineers have notified the City of Cumberland and are awaiting word from the Mayor as to the disposition of the remains.

A few of the older citizens have pointed out that the present construction area was the site of an almshouse and potters field years ago, but the identification of the three bodies is still unknown.

Walter Hull, chief of surveys, and foreman Bruce were the first persons to observe the graves, Dickson added.

A part of this cemetery is believed to have been called Hook Cemetery and is still standing near Walnut Street.

Mrs. Bertha Blonsky, 407 Valley Street, remembers a stone having the name "Hughes" on it and that some of the bodies were taken from there to Rose Hill Cemetery.

Gunter Plans Campaign Action

One office-seeker who is not worried about a heated political campaign is William A. Gunter, local attorney who is seeking the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Gunter has been quietly carrying on his law practice while meetings, rallies and tours are being held throughout the state.

However, Gunter said he plans "to get into action after the primary" on Monday. "I will do plenty of campaigning then—from one end of the state to the other," he declared.

Gunter was a member of the State Senate in the 1927 and 1929 sessions and during the latter was Republican floor leader. In the present campaign he entered the race on the last day for the filing of candidacy.

Detainer Lodged Against Kuhlman

Authorities reported yesterday that George F. Kuhlman, a local resident who was arrested Monday in Detroit, is facing prosecution there on a false pretense charge.

The State's Attorney's office said it has lodged a detainer against Kuhlman for prosecution here on a similar charge.

Kuhlman is charged with signing six bad checks amounting to about $200, drawn on a local bank last May, authorities said. The man left town after the checks were issued, they added.

Paper Collection Monday

Waste paper will be collected Monday in the area from south of Baltimore Avenue to Oldtown Road and Linderville, south of Baltimore Avenue. Paper should be on the curbs by 9 a. m.

Suit Filed To Set Aside City Anti-Red Law

Council Has 15 Days To Answer Complaint

Circuit Court of Allegany County was asked yesterday to declare Cumberland's Anti-Communist ordinance unconstitutional and to restrain the city from enforcing the law which requires registration of all members of the Communist column.

Associated Judge George Henderson signed a "show cause order," requiring the Mayor and City Council and the Chief and Commissioner of Police to show cause on or before September 30, why a restraining order should not be issued, and why the law should not be set aside.

Judge Henderson made it clear to the Cumberland NEWS last night that his action in signing the "show cause order does not prevent the enforcement of the ordinance, and the arrest of known non-registered Communists residing in the city. The Court did not issue an injunction, nor a restraining order of any kind, although the bill of complaint asks that such action be taken by the court.

Suit Is Docketed

The suit was docketed for William Boyd Coleman, Arthur M. Schusterman both of 56 North Mechanic Street; and Clair R. Mease, 1023 Lafayette avenue, against the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, a municipal corporation; John J. Long, Police Commissioner of Cumberland, and R. Emmett Flynn, chief of Police of the City of Cumberland.

Attorneys for the petitioners are I. Duke Avnet, William H. Murphy, Harold Buchman, and Mitchell A. Dubow, of 213 Tower Building, Baltimore.

The petitioners contend the ordinance is unconstitutional and faulty in numerous phases, contravening Maryland Declaration of Rights and the Constitution of the United States.

Two Admit Membership

The bill of complaint states that Coleman and Schusterman are both members of the Communist party of Maryland and the United States.

The bill does not identify Mease as a member of the Communist party. All three plaintiffs are listed as veterans of World War II and residents of Cumberland for more than 10 years.

The section of the bill pertaining to Mease states he joins in the action "because he believes, and therefore avers, that the preservation of political liberty, including that of the Communist party, is of direct concern to the life, liberty and property of himself and all citizens of Cumberland."

It is also averred that the city ordinance is "void, illegal, unconstitutional, in violation of the Declaration of Rights and the Constitution of the United States."

It was further averred "it constitutes a bill of attainder against members of the Communist party and certain plaintiffs herein, contravening the Maryland Declaration of Rights, including Article 18 and the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution."

Takes Away Freedom

"It abrogates the rights of freedom of speech, press, and assembly guaranteed to the plaintiffs and all the people of Cumberland by the Maryland Declaration of Rights, including Article 40 thereof and by the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution, in that it 'flatly' prohibits the dissemination or sale of any literature issued by the Communist party.

"It denies them due process of law in violation of the Maryland Declaration of Rights and the Constitution of the United States," it was declared.

"It subjects them to disabilities or criminal penalties by the mere act of association with other persons or by membership in the Communist Party," it was added.

"The ordinance menaces the very existence of the democratic forms of government in Maryland and the imposition of a system of registration on the basis of their political beliefs and affiliations marks reversion to the autocratic, feudal tyrannical rule so abhorrent to the founders of the Republic."

It also claimed the City of Cumberland does not have power to enact such legislation.

Wants Ordinance Voided

Large Ballot Prepared For Primary On Monday

When Republican and Democratic voters go to the polls Monday to mark their respective ballots, they will be handed the largest primary ballots seen here in some time.

With the establishment of three new polling places in the county, the precincts now total 78 and coincident with that figure, there is a total of 78 candidates on the two ballots.

The Republican ballot printed on white paper, contains 50 names, while the Democratic ballot, printed on pink paper, contains 28 names.

A large number of candidates on each ballot this election is noted for the party state central committees.

A total of 14 are listed as candidates for the six seats on the Democratic State Central Committee, while the Republican ballot shows 12 candidates for the GOP Committee of six.

The Republican ballot shows party contests for United States Senator, attorney general of Maryland, county commissioners, state's attorney, county treasurer, clerk of court, sheriff, House of Delegates and the state central committee.

Of the 50 candidates on the GOP ballot, when the returns are counted there can be only 22 winners and 28 will be defeated.

The Democrats have primary contests for United States Senator, House of Representatives, governor, judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, sheriff, and their state central committee. Of the 28 candidates listed in the primary, 11 can win and 17 must lose.

Both ballots have the same last name appearing twice. On the Democratic ballot there are two men named "Kenney" as candidates for committee seats, while on the GOP ballot, there are two men named "Sloan" running for the House of Delegates.

There are a total of ten men

"What Can I Do To Help" Is Theme Of Chest Drive

Developing a theme for this year's Community Chest Campaign has occupied the attention of campaign leaders for the past few days. They settled on "What Can I Do to Help?"

The theme in Cumberland is particularly timely because citizens have been asking "what can be done" to assist the national program of preparedness.

Winfield H. Adam, publicity chairman of this year's campaign, pointed out that the nine Community Chest agencies, with the hundreds of volunteer workers have the day to day task among many others, of helping to develop youngsters into strong and healthy young men and women. This bears particularly upon the problem of juvenile delinquency, which is still one of the nation's greatest unsolved problems.

In addition, physical examinations for the Armed Services are revealing a serious deficiency brought out during World War II, where the percentage of rejections because of physical or mental defects was startlingly high.

Adam also pointed out that while many people consider the Chest as financing relief programs, that this problem is far too large for volunteer gifts, and in the main, is supported through tax funds.

Several Community Chest agencies, Associated Charities, the Salvation Army, Jewish Welfare, and the Traveler's Aid Society, however, supply limited food, clothing and housing in emergency cases until the proper help can be given.

He emphasized that this help given necessarily had to be confined to instances where the public programs were not able to act promptly enough or cope with the immediate situation.

The budget adopted by the Community Chest Board of Directors for this coming year's work is $87,794.34, being $3,519.00 higher than the amount secured in last year's successful Chest campaign.

Weather Forecast
Partly cloudy, cooler and rather windy today.

U. N. COUNTER-OFFENSIVE OPENED

Congress Opens Defense Post To Marshall

Bill Lifting Legal Barrier Adopted Over GOP Protests

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Congress overrode stormy Republican protests today to approve a special law permitting Gen. George C. Marshall to take over the civilian post of Secretary of Defense.

Marshall, a lifelong soldier, was Army Chief of Staff during World War II and later became Secretary of State.

The Senate agreed to lift the present legal barrier against appointment of a military man to the post—with the explicit understanding that the rule is waived for Marshall alone. The vote was 47 to 21.

The House has previously passed the bill, 220 to 105.

While the measure now goes to the White House, the Senate must still confirm Marshall to succeed Louis A. Johnson, who resigned under pressure on Tuesday.

Dictatorship Fears Aired

While most of the scattered criticism in both chambers was impersonal, the debate produced some sharply critical references to Marshall's past role as a diplomat, notably his policies toward the Chinese communists.

Opponents also contended that putting a soldier in the traditionally civilian defense job might set the stage for a future military dictatorship. Rep. Meyer (R-Kans) said it was "the first goose step" in that direction.

Republican Sen. Taft (Ohio), Knowland (Calif), Mundt (SD), Hickenlooper (Iowa), Butler (Nsb) and Cain (Wash) took a similar stand in Senate debate.

Jenner Assails Marshall

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) launched a bitter attack on Marshall, calling him "a living lie" and a "stooge" for Secretary of State Acheson.

But Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) sharply challenged Jenner's statement, declaring:

"If there is any man who is decent and clean and whose actions have been for the public interest, it is George C. Marshall."

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) agreed. He called Marshall "one of the greatest living Americans—first of all a great civilian."

Conferees Work Out Compromise Red Control Bill

'Concentration Camp' Provision Included

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (INS)—A House-Senate conference today agreed on a compromise communist control bill including a modified "concentration camp" provision and a tough red registration section.

Senate conferees also went along with the House bill provisions denying communists or red fronters jobs in defense plants operating under government contracts. Both versions of the measure bar such persons from government jobs and passport rights.

The Senate-backed detention camp provision was revised to bring into line with the Constitution by ensuring that it can only be applied in case of "invasion of rebellion."

The word "war" as a condition for applying the power was eliminated.

An authoritative Capitol Hill source had predicted that President Truman would veto the measure if the detention camp provision were eliminated entirely.

What Mr. Truman will do still is in doubt, as he told his Thursday news conference he would have to see the bill in final form before he decides on a veto. The President said before he would not sign the Senate bill, but that was before the amendment was added to provide for the internment of subversives.

It was also learned that the House accepted the Senate section making unlawful an act of conspiracy to set up a foreign control dictatorship in the U. S.

Membership in a subversive organization is not sufficient evidence for conviction on this point.

Under the compromise the original requirement was that communists and communist organizations, communist action groups and officers must register.

The conferees did not take a final vote of approval on the compromise today. They will meet again Monday morning to do that.

U. S. Favors Soft Peace With Japs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The United States is ready to press its wartime Pacific allies to accept a soft peace with Japan, without restrictions on rearmament or trade, and without reparations or indemnity.

Administration plans also call for retaining Okinawa as an American military base under a United Nations trusteeship, and, with Tokyo's consent, to keep American troops in Japan after the formal occupation is ended.

This American program was outlined today by responsible officials, following President Truman's statement that he has directed the State Department to renew treaty preliminaries immediately with 12 other wartime foes of Japan. Soviet Russia is included.

If Moscow as widely expected continues to insist on a treaty dictated by the big powers alone, officials believe the non-communist nations will agree to a separate peace settlement which would leave Japan in a technical state of war with Russia and in the western camp. Indications already have been received that Japanese leaders favor this course.

Britain Warned Of Sabotage Plot

LONDON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Labor government declared today it has uncovered a developing communist plot to sabotage Britain's defense built-up with a series of lightning strikes.

Labor Minister George Isaacs said British reds are aiming their first blows at the docks, the transport system and the nation's meat supplies.

He told the House of Commons an organization set up to operate the master plan will go into action at a series of worker mass meetings this weekend.

Anthony Eden, Conservative leader, termed Isaacs' statement "one of the gravest which has been made to us in the House in recent years in times of peace." In reply to a question from Eden, the Labor Minister said if necessary Parliament will be asked for new legislation to strengthen the government's hand against the reds.

Isaacs said communist agitators already are in action in a huge and spreading bus strike which all but floundered the London transport system today.

GE And Rival Unions Settle Long Dispute

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP) — The General Electric Company and two unions today ended a lengthy contract struggle marked by strikes and agreed on contract terms for more than 100,000 workers.

Forty thousand CIO workers have been involved in the walkouts, which the company said hampered war production, including jet engines.

The CIO settlement provided for an average 10-cent hourly wage increase, half of which went into effect July 1; potential cost of living pay increases; a $125-a-month pension plan and insurance benefits.

Terms of a separate settlement with an independent union representing almost half the GE workers were not divulged, but were believed similar.

Previous wage scales of the two unions have not been given out.

Scattered strikes by CIO workers began Aug. 29. Later, a general walkout was called and then rescinded at the government's request, but GE strikes have continued in some cities.

A CIO union spokesman voiced confidence the strikers would return to work on Monday, although actual signing of the contracts will not take place until later.

Settlement, except on details of pensions and insurance, was reached in New York with the Independent United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE), claiming to represent 45,000 workers in 46 GE plants.

The company and the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE), claiming to represent 60,000 workers in 60 GE plants, reached agreement in Washington.

WE Offer Rejected

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15 (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corporation today offered an eight-cent hourly pay boost to approximately 80,000 employes and it was promptly rejected by two major unions.

One-Year-Old Boy Drowns In Wash Tub

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP) — There was a crash in front of Mrs. Luther Rowe's home yesterday. She left her wash tub and went out to see it.

Two cars had collided.

Mrs. Rowe came back to her washing in a few minutes. In one of the tubs was the body of her one-year-old grandson, Ernest Kelly Jones. He had toddled across the floor and fallen in.

U. S. Proposal For European Defense Given Treaty Council

Unified Force Would Include Both Americans And Germans

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson laid before the North Atlantic Council late today a one-package American proposal for the defense of Western Europe. It would include use of both American and German military contingents in a single unified force.

Acheson's proposition also calls for a supreme effort by all the other 11 Atlantic treaty nations to raise and equip their own military contingents for the prospective new international army.

According to information from fully informed diplomatic sources, Acheson went down the line for creation of a command staff to direct the training and organization of the new force. He declared that from its initial stages of organization it should have a single overall commander.

Reaction Is Awaited

The U. S. Secretary made his proposal at the end of this afternoon's four-hour council session. Other ministers had already spoken and their reaction to his one-package plan — particularly to the idea of arming Western German units — will not be fully known in the council until tomorrow.

There is considerable optimism apparent among American diplomats that the idea will be accepted, though it might not be announced at once.

The aim of the United States, Acheson said, is to create a powerful will to resist aggression in the whole area of Western Europe by providing the means of resistance.

Therefore, he continued, a halfway effort is not enough.

On the part of the United States, Acheson said, the offer to assign a part of its military forces to an international command marks a revolutionary development in foreign policy and shows the extent to which this nation is prepared to go.

Germany Could Be Battleground

With respect to Germany, Acheson said the United States believes the time has come for a decision in principle on the inclusion of German military units, and details can be worked out later.

In the event that war broke out in Europe, Acheson continued, the Atlantic powers would be fighting as far east as possible which would mean fighting on German soil, and the Western Germans should have opportunities to defend their own territory, especially since forces from the other side of Germany presumably would be involved.

3 Yanks Burned Alive By Reds

WITH THE U. S. SECOND DIVISION IN KOREA, Sept. 15 (AP) — American soldiers told an Army inquiry board today that at least three of their buddies were thrown into a huge roaring fire by their red captors on the western front recently.

This latest grisly story in a list of North Korean atrocities against captured Americans came to light at a U. S. Second Division investigation.

There have been many proved instances of American prisoners being shot to death with their hands tied behind their backs. In one of these established cases, a North Korean woman guerrilla did the shooting.

The burned Americans were captured when reds overran their advance outpost Aug. 31.

Their escaped comrades told the board of inquiry that at least three American GIs were thrown into a bonfire, about 10 feet across, built for that purpose with old blankets and anything else available.

Hail Causes Heavy Damage In Joplin, Mo.

JOPLIN, Mo., Sept. 15 (AP) — A barrage of large hailstones ripped through rooftops and windows, causing an estimated $1,500,000 damage early today.

The storm lasted about 10 minutes, hitting the city in two waves, and the roar awakened many of this southwest Missouri City's 40,000 inhabitants. Many thought a tornado was sweeping the city.

Representatives of major insurance companies, who made the damage estimate, said roofs of 6,500 to 8,000 buildings were wrecked or damaged by the hail, some as big as 9½ inches in circumference. Neon signs, awnings and windows were shattered.

Tax Bill Hits Snag, Fouling Recess Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The $4,508,000,000 war tax bill ran into such stiff disagreement today that Congress had to abandon its plan to quit tomorrow night.

A House and Senate conference committee, after okaying sharp tax increases for individuals and corporations, fell out over provisions supposed to tighten up the tax laws.

But Chairman Doughton (D-NC), of the House delegation on the committee, expressed certainty that the bill will be passed in time to make higher income taxes on 50,000,000 individuals effective on October 1 as planned. Chairman George (D-Ga), of the Senate group, said he too expects agreement in time.

Rate Goes Up To 18 Per Cent

Individual withholding rates are scheduled to go up from the present 15 per cent, after exemptions, to 18 per cent. Exemptions are figured about $11 a week for each person. Thus the increase is one-fifth of the present withholding tax.

The corporation increase affects half the income for 1950, with the maximum rate hiked from 38 per cent to 45. These two increases are figured to produce $4,200,000,000 new revenue, with the remainder coming from a variety of new rules.

Bill Requested By Truman

The bill was requested by President Truman as a first installment on defense costs—an emergency tax measure to be followed by another. It also aims a blow at inflation.

Conferees got along fine until they reached the tax law tightening sections on which Senate and House had different ideas.

One of the complicated provisions on which the committee met disagreement is the treatment of capital gains and losses on property used in trade or business.

Conferees One-Third Through Money Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee today plowed a third of the way through the huge $17,192,000,000 emergency money bill to pay for stronger defense against the red menace.

The committee was reported to have agreed tentatively on a figure to build up the Voice of America information program which lies between the Senate's vote for an extra $97,000,000 and the House $77,000,000.

It was learned that the conferees also gave approval to a $6,000,000 request for building up the FBI force to tighten internal security measures.

Leathernecks, Ahead Of Schedule, Pressing Forward Toward Seoul

TOKYO, Saturday, Sept. 16 (AP)—Ahead of schedule, U. S. Marines drove toward Seoul today from their landing point at Inchon on Korea's west coast, cuting behind a 140,000-man red army which other United Nations forces attacked frontally this morning.

A flagship dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Relman Morin said reinforcements were pouring into the scene of Friday's landings while the first waves quickly seized all objectives and swept east of Inchon.

(A naval spokesman in Washington estimated the total force involved at upwards of 40,000.)

By mid-morning today, the advancing leathernecks ceased calling for warship fire, suggesting they were meeting light opposition in their bid to seize all vital avenues for supplying and reinforcing the bypassed red army.

While Gen. Douglas MacArthur personally directed the U. S. 10th Corps in a drive aimed at seizing Seoul's supply rotues, U. S., British and South Korean troops at the beachhead opened a heavy offensive this morning.

Supported by tanks, planes and artillery, they struck along a front of more than 70 miles from the beachhead's south end up to and beyond Taegu.

Swinging over to the offensive a day after MacArthur personally directed amphibious landings at Inchon, the ground forces sought to tear the line to pieces and send spearheads 165 miles northwestward toward Seoul.

Simultaneous Attacks

MacArthur's 10th Corps assault landing quickly penetrated the post of Inchon within 22 miles of Seoul. The general's aim was to seize supply routes there and clamp a vise on the reds.

The first of three coordinated blows against the southeast beachhead was struck at 7 a. m. along the Naktong River, between Taegu and the southern front.

Two hours later, simultaneous attacks began north and northwest of Taegu, near the center of the battle line and west of Masan at the south end of the front.

Associated Press Correspondent Jack MacBeth said the attack north of Taegu kicked off while planes and artillery pinned down communists dug in on mountain positions overlooking the reds.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton reported the southern drive had for its first mission to "kill as many of the enemy as possible."

Swinton said the Americans at the outset of the attack burst from their defense positions but reports indicated hard fighting was ahead.

Communists "On Spot"

The communists were swiftly threatened with:

1. Being trapped from behind at Inchon by 10th Corps operations which speedily penetrated two miles into that port city the first day.

2. With being cut off from retreat along the east coast road by South Korean commandos who went ashore Friday at three points north of red-held Pohang.

3. With being split down the middle by today's push beyond Taegu—the key American base which the reds come close to capturing, once fighting to within less than seven miles of it.

Reds dug in on heights dominating the approaches to Taegu, were pounded by low-flying fighter bombers and field guns as the U. N. troops struck along highways leading north.

Simultaneously with the Inchon assault, South Korean Republican troops made secondary landings on the Korean east coast behind the red lines. The South Koreans also reported an Allied landing on the west coast at Kunsan, 115 miles south of Inchon, but this was not officially confirmed.

Symington Hints Crackdown Due On "Chiselers"

Anti-Hoarding Order Expected Next Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — The nation's defense production chief, W. Stuart Symington, today blamed most recent price jumps on a few "unpatriotic chiselers" and hinted that a government crackdown is in the offing.

An anti-hoarding order, directed at industry, is due next week.

Symington said "serious damage" is being done by the activities of "people new in the market, organized to make an illegal or black market profit, or at least a profiteering profit."

Plans To Be Ready Soon

The National Securities Resources Board head said comprehensive plans to deal with the situation will be ready in a week or so. He noted that the government has the power—under the new defense production act—to seize inventories and penalize hoarders.

"We would like to get hold of some of these hoarders and show what they have been doing," Symington told a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee which is keeping tabs on the country's defense production program.

President Truman last Saturday gave Symington overall supervision of the program.

All-Out Rubber Production

Symington also disclosed that the President has ordered the production of synthetic rubber by government-owned plants stepped up to capacity.

This would mean an annual increase of 80,000 tons of so-called general service rubber, to a new total of 760,000 tons.

Even before Symington spoke out, the new National Production Authority made ready to impose its first curb on industry — an "inventory control" order designed to stop hoarding of scarce war materials.

This will be followed, perhaps next week, by an order requiring all producers to give priority in production and delivery to firms holding military contracts.

Filipino Volcano Erupts; 84 Dead

MANILA, Saturday, Sept. 16 (AP)—Unofficial reports today raised the number of dead in a sudden eruption of Hibok Hibok volcano in the Southern Philippines to 84 persons.

Thirty-five others were injured seriously by hot ashes.

Inhabitants of three villages near the flaming volcano were evacuated to other parts of Camiguin Island. The villages were being showered by red hot ashes.

It was still feared that hot lava would begin flowing from the volcano as it did two years ago when 30,000 residents of the island fled the island.

President Elpidio Quirino immediately ordered three naval patrol vessels to little Camiguin island to assist in evacuating its 45,000 or more inhabitants if need arises.

Just two years ago Hibok Hibok erupted, from Sept. 1 to 16. Some 30,000 inhabitants fled the island. Only five persons were killed however.

Gabrielson Predicts Sen. Taft's Reelection

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (INS)—Guy G. Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, predicted tonight that Sen. Robert A. Taft would win his battle for reelection in Ohio by a "substantial margin."

Earlier, however, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Republican national committeeman from Ohio, declared:

"We're running scared in Ohio—but that's the way to win."

Gabrielson told newsmen at the conclusion of the GOP's two-day "shirtsleeves conference" of the national committee with leaders of 20 midwest and southern states:

"I feel very, very optimistic about our chances this fall."

Senate Action On O'Dwyer Delayed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP) — An objection by Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) tonight delayed Senate action on the appointment of former Mayor O'Dwyer of New York as ambassador to Mexico.

Sen. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, served notice he will bring up the nomination Monday.

Hickenlooper objected to approval of the nomination by unanimous consent, although he said he was ready to go ahead with consideration of it. However the necessary motion to bring it up tonight was not made, and his single objection was enough to hold up action.

Sen. Ives (R-NY) told the Senate he shares the "reluctance" of some of his colleagues to approve the appointment, but announced he will not oppose it.

Super Passenger Liner To Be Converted Into Troop Ship

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—The government announced today the 48,000-ton super passenger liner it is helping to build will be finished as a troop transport.

Three 13,000-ton combination passenger-cargo ships also under construction will be converted into troop ships along with the luxury liner, the Federal Maritime Board and Maritime Administration announced.

The changeover is being made at the request of the Defense Department "on recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff," the maritime agencies said.

Vice Adm. Edward L. Cochrane, chairman of the board and chief of the Maritime Administration, said these four vessels were selected for conversion into troop ships because "the work could be done on them with the greatest economy by initiating it early."

The luxury liner now scheduled for conversion will carry upwards of 12,000 troops while the three smaller ships will carry 2,500 to 3,000 troops each.

The 48,000-ton superliner, which is under construction at Newport News, Va., was to have been the largest and most luxurious vessel ever built in this country.

The government was putting up most of the $70,380,000 cost of the vessel.

The ship was to be named the "S. S. United States," but officials said it probably will be given another name for its military service.

The three smaller ships are under construction at Camden, N. J., with a planned cost of $10,671,000 each.

They were to have been named the President Hayes, President Adams and President Jackson; they also probably will be renamed.

The superliner is being constructed by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., while the other three are being built by the New York Shipbuilding Corp. These companies will continue the construction.

The maritime agencies said the government will have to make a settlement of its contracts with the shipping concerns for which the vessels were being built.

16 Reservists Receive Orders

Orders to report to Baltimore for physical examinations and mobilization have been received by 16 members of the two Cumberland Naval Reserve units, according to Lt. Comdr. F. A. Lewis, inspector-instructor.

Lewis said if the men pass the physical examinations, they will be sent to the Naval Receiving Station at Washington for assignment. He said that it is anticipated that no other reservists will be called from this area until after November 1.

Receiving orders to report this week were:

Joseph Freno, 43 Boone Street, construction driver first class; John E. Mertens, Route 3, utilities man second class, both of the Seabee Construction company here.

Charles R. Kreiger, Wiley Ford, radioman first class; William F. Cage, Route 3, engineer third class; Maurice L. Goodman, 811 Elmwood Lane, machinists mate second class.

Robert M. Combs, LaVale, metalsmith mate first class; Ray Simpson, boatswains mate second class; Donald F. White, metalsmith mate third class; Oliver B. Porter, Eckhart, metalsmith mate second class.

Roy Edward McLaughlin, 8 East First Street, fireman; Donald E. Roy, Potomac Park, fireman; Charles E. Coco, 254 Columbia Street, yeoman and second class, and Dalton D. Sheetz, Keyser, W. Va., machinist's mate first class.

To go next week are Edward J. Eider, 532 Fairmont Avenue; Robert D. Robertson, Frostburg, and Elmer F. Habersack, Cresaptown, all firemen.

An application for a permit for a Wrights Crossing junk yard was tabled by the Allegany County Board of County Commissioners yesterday pending legal advice.

The matter was tabled until the board could receive legal advice from County Attorney Gorman Getty.

Propaganda Needed Against Communists

From the Far East come persistent reports that the anti-American propaganda of the communists is not being effectively countered. The communists seize on every fact which can be made to reflect adversely on America and exploit it to the full. When suitable half-truths are not available, they do not hesitate to employ pure inventions instead.

The communists pour out their propaganda unceasingly. It matters not whether they have something new to say or can only repeat what was said yesterday. They keep at it. They paint the United States as a warmonger keeping the world in turmoil. They call us the aggressor in Korea, and use stories of our military operations there to declare that we are destroying everything, bombing women and children and murdering innocent bystanders. They say we want to run the world, that the United Nations is our puppet, that we want Asia for exploitation and that we are opposed to freedom and self-government for Asian peoples.

The American answers to this constant tirade are woefully few and inadequate, if what is heard of the effect is accurate. Congress has been reluctant to vote substantial sums for propaganda operations, but the vastly greater sums for war and defense may be money poured down a rat-hole if we cannot gain and keep the friendship or at least the confidence of the people of the East. We are prone to think, on hearing some wild communist charge, that it is not worth dignifying with an answer. That is a tragic mistake. Their lies need answers.

Of all inappropriate names the Japanese term for Korea heads the list. It is Chosen, "the land of the morning calm." There has been little calm in Korea for many years and especially now, either in the morning or at any other time of day.

Fifty Whodunits

A writer who in 59 years has written 50 detective novels has hardly been idle. This is Agatha Christie, the publication of whose 50th mystery, "A Murder Is Announced," has been made something of a publishing event. Miss Christie's serio-comic Belgian detective, Hercule Poirot, who attains all his solutions through his "little gray cells," is familiar to addicts. What gives her stories a special claim to attention has been their extraordinary financial success. It has been estimated that, though Miss Christie is English, Americans have bought nearly 35,000,000 copies of her books, and that from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 have been sold all over the world. That must make the mouths water of those plodding novelists who are lucky if each work sells 3,000 copies.

The Christie books are generally masterly exemplifications of the shell game. The reader's attention is so well diverted that the real solution comes as a surprise. In her best-known book, "The Murder of Roger Ackroyd," her mystification was carried so far that readers are still debating whether she treated them fairly.

The fastidious who may scorn mysteries should be assured that Miss Christie can write good English as well as spin a yarn, and that these stories are the most moral of all novels. Their one lesson is that no matter how carefully the villain conceals his crime, he is sure to be found out.

It's too bad the subject of a fish story isn't able to hear how hard a fight he put up.

The German Choice

The fear is often expressed that if the Germans were allowed to rearm they might then join forces with the Russians and overrun all Western Europe. If this be the prospect, the Russians are doing their best to end it. They have done things which the Germans are not likely to forgive.

Among them are the annexation of East Prussia, including such old German cities as Koenigsberg and Stettin, the turning over to Poland of another large portion of the Eastern border, and the refusal to restore hundreds of thousands of German prisoners, who are undoubtedly ending their lives in the uranium mines or in Russian defense work.

The administration of the Russian zone of Berlin stands out in contrast with that of the sections ruled by the Allies. The Russians have been brutal and predatory, the Allies have governed with justice and consideration.

Suppose that the Germans were willing to overlook these great grievances, with whom would they find it safer to cast their lot? The Allies, even the French, propose merely to keep Germany from starting another aggressive war. The Russians obviously plan communist control, with all that that means, and eventual annexation. The Germans should be able to see the contrast.

Soft music is supposed to stir cows to give more milk, soothe patients on the operating table and perform similar feats. Does it still work when accompanied by the witticisms of a disk jockey?

Suppressing Confucius

Mao Tze-tung, the communist dictator of China, is reported to have ordered the destruction of the writings of Confucius as dangerous to Marxism. He is probably copying the procedures of Hitler and Stalin, but there also is Chinese precedent for him. In the second century B. C. the emperor Chi Hwang-ti, the builder of the Great Wall, wished to be remembered as the founder of Chinese civilization. He therefore ordered the destruction of the books written before his day, including those of Confucius. The order was imperfectly carried out, so that Confucius has survived to influence the Chinese ever since. No doubt, however, this act of suppression cost the world many other ancient books of interest, such as histories of the time, which would solve many historical problems.

Mao will have a far harder time of it than did Chi Hwang-ti. In the latter's day writings were preserved in only a few handwritten copies, mostly kept in temples. The printing press has now spread editions of Confucius far and wide, so that to root them all out, in China alone, would be a nearly impossible task.

The chief effect of Mao's edict will be to advertise Confucius, and possibly to restore Chinese interest in him, which is said to have been fading.

Some people love their country, and others love what their country can give them.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Fever With No Obvious Cause

ONE OF THE MOST expensive and difficult problems encountered by the medical profession is tracking down the origin of fever when no obvious cause exists. This is especially true in individuals with an elevated temperature who complain of headache, malaise, loss of weight, nervousness, and vague aches and pains.

To trace the source of this combination of symptoms often demands time, effort and study and taxes to the utmost the ingenuity of the physician. Furthermore, the syndrome is common and has even been given a name—"fever of undetermined or obscure origin."

There are more than 75 conditions to be considered, varying from nervousness to tumors and malignancies. This list does not include clearcut diseases such as meningitis, pneumonia, or quinsy sore throat. Here other symptoms and findings provide diagnostic assistance.

• — • — •

Since obscure fever suggests a hidden infection, the physician is likely to inquire about unusual symptoms or sore or tender areas. In his examination of the patient he proceeds carefully from the top of the head to the tips of the toes. He looks for little things because the chances are good that the cause will be suggested by an insignificant abnormality. Pinpoint hemorrhages on the inner aspect of the eyelid for example, may suggest a heart disorder (subacute bacterial endocarditis). Enlargement of a few of the glands in the neck or armpit may offer the clue that a more thorough study of the blood is in order, inasmuch as infectious mononucleosis and Hodgkins' disease are possibilities. Redness of the throat may signify a source of infection in this region that goes unrecognized because there is not enough swelling to produce actual soreness.

In the checkup the physician also utilizes many of his gadgets thru which he is able to visualize the interior of most of the body openings. This means the otoscope for the ears, the ophthalmoscope for the eyes, and other equipment necessary to study the nose and mouth. The rectum and urinary tract should never be omitted, because these structures are frequent sources of trouble. In men, the prostate is important not only as a source of fever but of infections such as those that induce inflammation of the eyes, bursae, joints, muscles, and nerves.

X-ray of the chest is absolutely essential because tuberculosis always is suspected in one whose temperature rises without adequate explanation. It is virtually impossible to detect the disease in any other way because in the early stages the telltale squeaks and rales may not be heard with the stethoscope. Other X-rays may be needed to complete the study but the decision should be left to the discretion of the physician. The plates are used to detect abscessed teeth, infected nasal sinuses or gall bladder, mastoid involvement, kidney disturbances, and tumors. Cancer produces fever because of its toxic action and its tendency to become infected.

• — • — •

Certain infections are notorious for manifesting themselves in an obscure manner. Tularemia [rabbit fever], brucellosis [undulant fever], trichinosis [pork worm disease], typhoid, and rheumatic fever belong in this category. These maladies require blood tests and an electrocardiogram and skin tests also may be necessary. Sometimes this is only the beginning and the search must continue on and on. When no abnormality can be found nervousness is implicated, more so if the individual shows an inclination along this line.

HEART SYMPTOMS

D. P. writes: Is a coronary spasm another name for angina pectoris?

REPLY

In the past, the two conditions were thought to be related but we know now that not all cases of angina pectoris are caused by spasm of the coronary arteries. In most instances, narrowing of these passageways is due to hardening of the arteries and the chest pain that is so characteristic of angina results from lack of blood to the heart muscle, regardless of the origin.

Truman Decided To Fire Johnson Four Weeks Ago; British Helped To Put Skids Under Louey; Friendship With Baruch Broke Camel's Back

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There were a good many reasons why Louey Johnson was fired as Secretary of National Defense. He was, of course, the victim of fate in the Korean war, and the President needed a political scapegoat.

But the most important reason, in the end, for Johnson's exit was that he never made a friend of his chief in the White House. Had he won Truman as a real friend, the President would have stuck by him through hell and high water—regardless of Korea, regardless of military blunders, and regardless of economy at the wrong time.

Truman has stuck by his friend Mon Wallgren, by his friend Dean Acheson, and by his late friend Tom Pendergast, despite all sorts of criticism. But Johnson was never a friend.

In fact, Truman never even trusted his Secretary of Defense. He knew that Johnson was playing ball with the Republicans, with his old enemy Bernard Baruch, and with others who played on the opposite political ball team. At one time the President complained to Senator Kilgore, who comes from Johnson's home state, West Virginia.

"In order to find out what Louey is up to, I have to read the Republican press and the Chicago Tribune."

Actually, the President's decision to fire Johnson was made four or five weeks ago. After making the decision, Truman told very few people, one of them being General Marshall. Incidentally, it was not until the past week that Marshall finally gave his assent.

Secretary Johnson didn't know he was on the skids till the White House called in Steve Early, the Undersecretary of Defense, to tell him they wanted his resignation a week earlier than Johnson's, so that Early would not be mixed up in Johnson's exit. But Johnson heard about it through Early's office, went down to the White House and handed in his resignation, thus beating the President to the gun.

Strengthening Acheson

Mr. Truman had planned to force the resignation at approximately this time, however, in order to have it coincide with the meeting of the Big Three foreign ministers in New York. This was deliberate strategy planned to strengthen Dean Acheson's hand.

Johnson's eyes were on the Pacific and the Far East, while Acheson considered Europe more important. And the Johnson resignation was a deliberate move planned to strengthen our European front.

In fact, at least two members of the North Atlantic Pact — Great Britain and France—had been unhappy over Johnson's leadership of European preparedness, and the British had made no bones about indicating their restlessness under the ebullient and brawny Louey.

British resentment against Johnson undoubtedly dates back to The Hague meeting of national defense ministers, where Johnson deliberately planted a story aimed against British War Secretary John Strachey. Newspaper accounts from The Hague carried the story that British and American defense ministers had arranged to have confidential reports sent direct to British Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell, thereby circumventing War Secretary Strachey because of his former left-wing connection.

The story was later denied. But it developed that the original story had been planted by Johnson personally with the Associated Press. In fact, the AP man sent a confidential memo to his office telling how Johnson personally had given him the story slapping down the British War Secretary.

Naturally, this got back to the British War Secretary, and the British have dropped hints from time to time since then that they could work more efficiently with someone other than Louey in our national defense post.

Other reasons why the President decided to fire his bouncing Secretary of Defense were:

1. JOHNSON'S KNIFE-IN-THE-BACK POLICY TOWARD ACHESON—At official conferences, Johnson pretended to be a great pal of Secretary Acheson. But the White House knew that he had been passing ammunition to GOP Senators Brewster and Wherry to aid their attacks. At conferences in the Pentagon, Johnson and his aides could not talk for ten minutes without dropping wisecracks against the State Department. It became an open scandal.

2. PROCRASTINATION IN THE PENTAGON—Ever since the Korean outbreak, President Truman has been begging Johnson for a strategic long-range defense plan. But the truth is, Johnson hasn't been able to get the Joint Chiefs of Staff to agree on even the requirements for the Korean war. They are still bickering over our defense planning, and the few points they agree on are usually rejected and sent back for revision by Johnson. Yet Johnson has concealed this confusion in the Pentagon with optimistic, misleading reports to the public.

General Bradley has been so fed up that he has been ready to resign, though as a good soldier he has tried hardest to follow Johnson's leadership.

3. JOHNSON'S TRUTHFULNESS?—Inside the Cabinet, Johnson had the reputation of being an incurable liar. Ex-Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall used the sharpest language to express this failing of Johnson's. "Johnson," he told friends, "hates the truth."

On one occasion specifically known to this writer, Steve Early lectured his boss like a schoolboy.

"You have got to learn that you can't lie," Early told Johnson. "You simply cannot lie. Especially you can't lie to newspapermen. You get found out."

4. JOHNSON'S GRANDIOSE PROMISES — Johnson guessed wrong at practically every turn. He saw silver linings where there were none. He told the public what he thought they wanted to hear. He preached economy before the Korean war when he thought the public wanted economy. His statement that the United States would be ready at 5 a. m. if Russia attacked at 4 a. m. was one he can never live down.

5. JOHNSON AND MacARTHUR—The White House became convinced that Johnson had something to do with General MacArthur's statement on Formosa. In the first place, Johnson was close to Gen. Julius Klein, a Chicago newspaperman who now heads Pan American Airways' public relations lobby and who has also been active in the "get Acheson" drive. Klein has been working with Senators Brewster, Wherry and Taft in the drive to boost MacArthur and fire Acheson. The White House received information that Johnson had been playing hand-in-glove with Brewster and Klein in regard to Formosa and other matters.

6. JOHNSON'S LEGAL COMMITMENTS—Before he entered the Cabinet, Johnson was personal attorney to H. H. Kung, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. The Kung family has heavy investments in the Philippines and Formosa, and Johnson was continually poking his finger in the State Department's pie in regard to these matters. He obtained the appointment of his old friend, Myron Cowan, to be ambassador to the Philippines, and never relented in his drive to have the U. S. intervene in Formosa — where the Kung-Soong families are now in exile.

7. BERNARD BARUCH—Believe it or not, it was Bernard Baruch who helped to tip the scales against Johnson, though inadvertently. The President, who has developed a bitter hatred for Baruch, learned that Johnson had been conferring with him. This was the last straw. The President's mind was made up after that.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

WHAT is past is past, and there will be no dancing on the political grave of Louis Johnson in this space. But the process which led up to President Truman's dismissal of Johnson casts an interesting light on the future, and it is therefore worth describing. Truman's decision to replace Johnson with George C. Marshall was actually taken some ten days ago.

Until that time, Truman had no intention of dismissing Johnson. The President's loyalty to his subordinates is so fanatical that the fact that Johnson had given him disastrously bad advice carried no weight with him. Mere stupidity, however tragic its consequences, does not constitute an infringement of the truman code. But about ten days ago, Truman finally became convinced that Johnson had indeed violated the Truman code in two distinct ways.

In the first place, the President received overwhelming evidence, from sources which he trusted, that the reports that Johnson was under cutting Secretary of State Dean Acheson in order to protect himself, were true. In the second place, Truman also received evidence that since Korea Johnson had been privately preaching the inevitability of war, on Capitol Hill and elsewhere, and had been hinting broadly at preventive war. Indeed, the evidence clearly pointed to the conclusion that the preventive war speech of Navy Secretary Francis Matthews (the only one of the three secretaries who has been a Johnson man) was actually inspired by Johnson.

Truman Angered

The first point angered Truman, whose code demands loyalty returned for loyalty given. But the second point equally infuriated him, for rightly or wrongly, Truman still sincerely believes that general war can be avoided, and sincerely abominates preventive war talk. When Truman was at length convinced that the Truman code had been violated by Johnson on both counts, he made up his mind at once. He telephoned Marshall, and asked him to come to the White House.

Marshall had played little part in the speculation about Johnson's possible successor. But in fact Truman's turning to Marshall, whom he venerates, was almost instinctive in this situation. Marshall came privately to the White House towards the middle of last week, and was then reluctantly persuaded by the President to take the defense post. Johnson's suggestion of Marshall as a successor, contained in his letter to Truman, was of course merely an agreed device for putting as good a face as possible on what Truman called "terribly regrettable circumstances."

So much for the past. As for the future, certain conclusions are obvious. One is that Dean G. Acheson will be Secretary of State for as long as he wishes to remain. Another is that the MacArthur-Johnson policy for the Far East, which involved making Formosa a permanent American base, is dead so far as this Administration is concerned. And another is that the assumption that war is inevitable, or that a preventive war is desirable, will play no part in the Truman Administration's policy-making.

Capable Advisers

Finally, there is another fact which the shadow cast by Louis Johnson has hitherto obscured.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 — Implications of the appointment of General Marshall to be Secretary of Defense will not be realized for some time. His influence will dominate the Truman cabinet not only on military matters but on foreign policy.

While it is true that Dean Acheson was undersecretary during the time General Marshall was secretary of state, this does not mean that these two men see eye to eye on world affairs. They are close friends and have much respect for each other. But it will be necessary to examine anew the influences that will be at work when Messrs. Acheson and Marshall are given free rein to shape both military and foreign policy together. This is an important area for collaboration. Messrs. Acheson and Johnson got into difficulties there.

It will soon apparent that Mr. Marshall will accept such proper limitations upon his department's activities as the state department may impose. This will introduce some delicate questions for the president to solve. General Marshall is the type of man who knows how to keep out of anybody else's jurisdiction. He is diplomatic and tactful to the extreme. If a matter is strictly that of the State Department, he will not interfere or volunteer his opinions unless asked. Conversely, where defense needs require a certain build-up of forces, it will take a very persuasive argument to deter him from getting the necessary forces located where they ought to be.

It is in the cabinet, where over-all policy will be discussed and where global points of view will have to be determined, that General Marshall will exert maximum influence. Indeed, the general was primarily responsible for the initial steps that led to the gradual abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek. He had no illusions about the communists in China and, while he differed with Chiang, he held no particular ill feeling against him. Yet when the time came for a major decision, General Marshall held that America could not become involved in China and that, if Chiang collapsed, it was just too bad.

The General's reasoning was the same as that he expressed repeatedly in wartime when he found himself compelled to refuse the requests of local commanders in various theatres of war for more and more troops and equipment while Europe remained the first consideration. General Marshall had to pacify General MacArthur and Admiral King as again and again he insisted that it was necessary to beat Hitler first and tackle Japan on a total basis afterward.

Today the communists are trying hard to involve America in a war with China. General Marshall has his eyes fixed on Europe as our first concern. His viewpoint is in accord, to be sure, with that of the state department that everything should be done to avoid further involvement in China. But it is doubtful whether the general would sanction any policy which looks toward our withdrawal from Korea and admission of the Chinese communists to the security council as a program of appeasement.

Nor would the administration venture to adopt such a program, at least until after the North Koreans have been driven back to the 38th parallel. Such weighty questions as these, as well as matters concerning the rearming of Europe, will come up in the cabinet. When there are varying views expressed, it is a safe bet that the president will adopt the suggestions on policy given by General Marshall. He will stiffen the president against Russia if any stiffening is ever needed.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward General Marshall is one of awe born of tremendous admiration. It is being said metaphoricaly in the capital that the president thinks General Marshall, in wisdom, is "next to God." This gives some idea of the power that Genera. Marshall may wield on American policies in the next few months.

There are some people in the capital, however, who do not think General Marshall's mission to China, for example, was a success and that, while he was conscientious in his endeavors, he lacked the imagination to formulate a sound policy for America in the Far East This will be debated for many years to come.

One thing is clear — nobody questions the judgment General Marshall exhibited as a war commander or his remarkable faculty of selling Congress his ideas of what is needed for a military program.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Acheson's Victory

Dean Acheson, Secretary of State, has won an outstanding political victory against his arch-enemy in the administration, Louis Johnson. Their quarrel has been continuous since Louis Johnson became Secretary of Defense. It has been intense, positive, with no holds barred.

Many factors entered into the antagonism:

1. The Department of Defense and the State Department overlap in the sense that the latter forms the policy which the former must implement. For instance, it was the State Department which forgot to arrange for an entrance to or an exit from the American zone in Berlin, except through Russian territory.

But the Department of Defense had speedily and at great cost to conduct the Berlin airlift.

It was the State Department which bungled our relations with Asiatic countries.

But it is the Department of Defense that has to fight the war in Korea.

Unless the State Department, the Department of Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the President are as one as to policy, there must be quarrels over responsibility. These have occurred constantly, particularly as the Department of Defnse is expected by the public to keep expenses down when there is no fighting and yet always to be ready, no matter how difficult the State Department may make the situation.

2. Information reaches both departments from many sources, including their own. Army and Navy Intelligence may provide different data from State Department data and from Central Intelligence Agency data.

The collection of information is not too difficult; the appraisal of such information, however, involves experience, knowledge, background and judgment. Military men, fresh from war experience, are likely to differ in judgment from Washington desk-sitters.

Furthermore, it cannot be denied that our military men have never been famous for their respect for those in the State Department, whom they call cookie-pushers.

Louis Johnson took a pro-Chiang Kai-Shek position regarding China—a position which has proved itself to be correct by the Korean war, and one which General Douglas MacArthur, in the field, fully supported.

Dean Acheson took a pro-Chinese communist position, obviously on two grounds:

A. That it would be too costly to support an anti-communist position in Asia and at the same time protect Western Europe, which he regarded as more essential;

B. Roosevelt had originated the appeasement policy at Tehera; it has never been reversed by order of the President, and therefore it is the duty of the State Department to continue to carry it out until instructed otherwise.

No matter how antagonistic one may be toward Dean Acheson and his peculiarities, this must be regarded as his position, Louis Johnson opposed that position, believing and he has proved to be correct that the communist breakout would come in Asia before it would come in Europe.

Knowing that that was his attitude, last April, at a private dinner attended by a large number of editors and publishers, I asked him if, in the event of a communist seizure of Formosa, the United States would be prepared to meet the consequences. My question, a little more intricately stated, was designed to give Johnson an opportunity to tell them in this large gathering what I knew he was saying privately, namely, that the State Department policy was making the situation impossible. He dodged the question altogether.

3. Temperamentally, Acheson and Johnson were incompatible. Acheson has the polish of an Englishman, suave, smooth, slick and oblique. He can say in 500 or 600 words what most of us could conclude by a "yes," a "no," or a "maybe." To straightshooters, his circumlocutions can be tantalizing. He covers his errors with brilliant briefs which come down to the letter of the law or of his instructions. Someone else always originated the error.

Johnson is free of tongue. His temper is not of the smoothest and even the long experience of his under-secretary, Steve Early, could not save him from hitting out sharply when smoothies would have counted not 10 but 1,000 He made enemies by telling the truth as he saw it. Unable to compromise when public opinion, which is often wrong on intricate problems, an unwillingness to lie to gain popularity, he became a liability to Harry Truman, whose outlook on great affairs is narrowly political and partisan.

So, Louis Johnson was ditched. To suggest that he wanted to quit is to go beyond the facts. He was fired!

Mineral Tax Bills Are Being Prepared

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Mineral County Sheriff's office has put on extra help this week to aid in making out tax tickets for the tax discount period in October.

All of the county estimates and levies have been received by the sheriff and the rush is now on to get all tax forms made out before the opening of the discount period.

Sheriff F. C. Davis says this is one of the busiest periods of the fiscal year for his office, adding that tax papers must be prepared for the semi-annual discount periods in October and April for those who pay twice yearly, in order to take advantage of their discount allowances.

Suit Filed

and void and unconstitutional under the Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act and under the general equity powers of the court.

The bill of complaint was filed by Harold Buchanan, the state Progressive Party's executive secretary, and Mitchell A. Dubow, both of Baltimore. Two other attorneys, I. Duke Avnet and William H. Murphy, also of Baltimore, are entered on the papers as co-counsel in the action.

The ordinance passed its third and final reading before the Mayor and City Council September 5, with one of the largest crowds ever seen at a Council meeting in attendance.

Action Is Unanimous

Council acted unanimously after hearing arguments by a score or more representing veterans groups and other patriotic organizations.

The law gave Communists residing within the city limits until September 15 at midnight to register at police headquarters, with failure to register invoking arrest and a penalty of $10 to $100 fine or 10 to 30 days in jail, with each day of failure to register to be considered a separate violation.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir said last night that his deputies had notified each member of the council, the mayor, police commissioner, chief of police and city solicitor of the Court action and proper summonses had been served by 5 p. m.

Large Ballot

named "William". Six men have the given name of "Charles." There are five with the name "John" and one "Jonathan." Five others have the given name "James." "George" and "Thomas" appear three times each while there are two "Wilburs," one "Fred" and one "Frederick," "Peter" and 'Paul" appear once each. There are two "Edwards," and 'Edwin" and an 'Edgar," so it might be said "Ed" is on the ballot four times.

With all the 78 candidates listed on the two ballots the name of only one woman appears. She is a Republican, Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown of Baltimore City, candidate for attorney general. Her opponent is William A. Gunter, this city, one of the 10 "Bills" on the list.

Interest in the primary, so far as the Republican party is concerned, seems to center in the eight-man race for the three county commissioner seats; the three-man race for state's attorney and the two-man race for clerk of court.

The sheriff, Edward R. Muir, is the first sheriff to be a candidate to succeed himself, as the law was changed making this possible a couple of years ago.

The length of the ballots and the time it will take to count two ballots is expected to delay the returns a few hours longer than usual.

A reasonably heavy primary vote anticipated because of the interest that seems to be developing, will make the final unofficial tabulation an "early Tuesday morning" proposition, in many polling places.

Detroit Again Swaps Places With Yankees

Tigers Regain Lead, By Winning, 9-7; Mize Belts Three Homers

DETROIT, Sept. 15 (INS)—Detroit fought back twice today, defeated the New York Yankees 9 to 7 and regained first place in the American League despite three home runs by Johnny Mize.

The Tigers' triumph boosted them a half a game ahead of the Yanks.

Mize single-handedly kept the New Yorkers in the game as he drove in six runs with his three consecutive homers.

But Jerry Priddy's two-run homer, extra base hits by Hoot Evers and Vic Wertz and Hank Borowy's sterling relief pitching brought Detriot the victory. The one-time Yankee hurler relieved starter Art Houtteman in the sixth and blanked New York the rest of the way. Borowy gave up only one hit in the four innings.

The Yanks scored three times in the first inning when Joe DiMaggio doubled Yogi Berra home and Mize homered. The Tigers came back with two on Priddy's four-base smash.

Mize socked another home run to start the fourth and came through with a third in the fifth inning with Cliff Mapes and DiMaggio on base.

The Tigers capitalized on two mental lapses by the Yanks in the third to score three runs. They added another in the fifth and tallied three times in the sixth to win the game on three singles, a walk, an outfield fly and Wertz's double. Box:

The Pocahontas countians scored both of their touchdowns in the second period. A 90-yard march produced the first six-pointer. Bosley passed to McLaughlin on the 18 and the latter raced to the 1. On the next play, McLaughlin smashed over for the initial score.

Bosley's pass to W. Sutton who snared the ball on the Moorefield 40 and ran to the end zone gave Green Bank a 12-0 advantage at intermission.

Ted Williams Gets Four Hits As Boston Wins

Belts 3-Run Homer, Browns Lose, 12-9

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 15 (AP)—Ted Williams returned to action and demonstrated his physical fitness today by slamming out four hits, including a three-run homer, as the pennant-seeking Boston Red overpowered the St. Louis Browns 12-9.

Thus Steve O'Neill's musclemen advanced to within one and a half-lengths of the Detroit Tigers, who took first place by downing New York.

Williams, highest-paid player in baseball, had seen action only as a pinch batter since he fractured his left elbow in the July All-Star game at Chicago. He had three singles to go with his homer in six trips.

Manager O'Neill, jubilant in the clubhouse after the game, said Williams should be credited for the important victory.

Joe Dobson was knocked out by a three-run Brownie uprising in the sixth, but was credited with the victory, his 15th against eight defeats. Don Johnson, the starting Brownie pitcher, was charged with his sixth loss against five victories.

Williams' homer over the right field pavilion, with Dobson and Billy Goodman on base, was his 26th of the season and highlighted a six-run outburst in the sixth, breaking a 2-2 deadlock. Box:

McMECHEN, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP)—Charles C. (Doc) Hartwig, 38, All American guard at the University of Pittsburgh in 1934, died here today after a long illness.

Hartwig died at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Hartwig, where he had been visiting.

He was born in Wileysville, W. Va., and graduated from Union High School in Benwood, W. Va. He was a football letterman at Pitt from 1932 to 1934 and was captain the last year.

After working four years for General Motors at Baltimore, Hartwig coached football at Moundsville (W. Va.) High School in 1938 and Martins Ferry (Ohio) in 1939 and 1940.

Hartwig was a member of Delta Tau Delta national college fraternity and of various masonic groups at Wheeling, W. Va.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Monday at Washington, Pa., with burial in a cemetery there.

Survivors include the wife, Mrs. Dorothy Frazier Hartwig; a son and three daughters; his parents; and two sisters, Mrs. Waymen Minnick of Baltimore and Mrs. Audie Shriver of McMechen.

Allegany Opens Grid Card With Beall Here Tonight

Game At Stadium Set For 8 O'clock

The fifth edition of Allegany High School football teams coached by Robert E. "Bob" Pence will make its bow tonight when the Campers launch a nine-game schedule by playing Beall High School of Frostburg at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

Tonight's game will be the 41st for AHS since Pence took over the reins at the start of the 1946 season. Over the past four seasons the Campobello elevens have won 22, lost 14 and tied 4. Pence's teams have lost only one game in the last two years in which 18 wins have been marked up and one tie game played.

Beall will be also making its season's debut under Joseph Hoopengardner who has been at the Frostburg school since 1946 when the sport was revived there after a lapse of about 25 years. Hoopengardner's teams have won eight and lost 22 in four seasons.

The Mountain City school has yet to gain a decision over the Campers. In fact Beall has been blanked three straight years by scores of 20-0, 47-0 and 25-0 by AHS varsity elevens.

Beall's starting lineup will include six regulars of the 1949 team, namely, Glenn Workman, Don Rice and Harry Lennox, linemen, and Norman Gaudio, Leo Brady and George Miller, backs. The lone first stringer back in the AHS lineup is Ronnie Sisk, quarterback.

Probable starting lineups for tonight's game are:

Manager Robert "Sparky" Chisholm's tossers captured the first two games of the best-of-five series by scores of 25-7 and 8-3.

Only five hits were credited to the teams in yesterday's finale, three being credited to the winners who had 10 runners stranded on the hassocks, including three in the final frame. Berkenbaugh garnered two of the Red Sox three hits.

Galen McGregor of the Tigers fanned 10 while Doug Sullivan whiffed 11. Five of the eight errors charged against the teams were made by the Red Sox. Box:

90,000 May See Pro Grid Game

Browns, Eagles Open NFL Season Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15 (AP) — "The Eagles may chase us off the gridiron but we'll be on hand for the game with no alibies," declared Coach Paul Brown today as he led his Cleveland Browns into town for the world series of professional football tomorrow night.

The game, matching the two-time champions of the National Football League — the Philadelphia Eagles — and the Browns, four-times master of the defunct All-America Conference, will be played in Municipal Stadium. The kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

If the weather remains fair perhaps 90,000 people will sit in for the most talked of game in the National Football League's history. The Eagles management reported today the money from more than 60,000 customers was in the till.

As Brown's stalwarts took their first look at the stadium turf in a brief workout, they found themselves a three-point underdog. The Eagles were favored by seven and one-half points until they dropped a 10-3 decision Sunday to the Chicago Bears — the team the Browns nosed out 27-24.

The Browns, making their debut in the NFL, are in the best of shape physically but the news they received from the Eagles' camp was not encouraging.

Mae Murray Advances

EAST LAKE COUNTRY CLUB, Atlanta, Sept. 15 (INS)—Rutland, Vermont's claim to the 1950 women's national amateur golf title remained intact late today as little Mae Murray won again.

Miss Murray led Helen Siegel, Philadelphia, by a psychological leash for fifteen holes in the semi-finals before landing a birdie four on the 16th hole for a 3-2 decision. She will meet Beverly Hanson, Pasadena, Cal., tomorrow in the final 36-hole round.

Miss Hanson defeated Grace Demoss, Corvallis, Ore., one-up on the 18th when Miss Demoss missed an 18-foot putt after her glancing chip had taken a crazy angle and landed off the green to the left.

Dropkicker Simmons Is Classified 4-F

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP) — West Virginia University's football hopes got a boost today to offset the bad news of injuries.

Dropkicker Gene Simmons of Elkins returned to training camp with the information he had been classified 4-F because of a slight heart murmur. The trouble dates back to a childhood attack of rheumatic fever.

Simmons, who does little but dropkick for the West Virginia squad, underwent a draft physical examination at Fairmont yesterday.

A senior, he made good on 29 of 37 conversion attempts in 1948 and counted two field goals — one of them the margin of a victory over Maryland. Last year he made good on 29 of 33 tries for the point after touchdown.

Swanton Wins, 7-1

Swanton defeated Bittinger in a Mountain Top Baseball League game yesterday by the score of 7-1. Darkness halted the game at the end of the 5th inning. Bill Sweitzer led the Swanton batsmen with a triple, double and single. Score:

BITTINGER	1

Michaels and Sweitzer; J. Buckel and Stanton.

Bubba Church Injured

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15 (INS) — Emory (Bubba) Church, rookie pitching star of the Philadelphia Phils, received a cut requiring four stitches tonight when a line drive struck him under the left eye.

The accident occurred in the third inning of the twilight half of a doubleheader between the Phils and Cincinnati Reds. Ted Kluszewski, giant Cincinnati first baseman, socked one of Church's pitches back to the box and the 24-year-old righthander fell to the ground, writhing in agony. Church's face was bleeding as he was carried off.

Museum Scientists Visit Area In Garrett County

OAKLAND,—Scientists from Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh have set out on a trail that is thousands of years old, in an attempt to find vital information about modern man's predecessors in the upper Ohio valley. The only area in Maryland being visited is Garrett County.

The program will cover a three-year period. William J. Mayer-Oakes, the museum's field archeologist, and three other persons have been in Garrett County the past 10 days and have been doing research around Friendsville.

Assisting him is F. R. Corliss, Jr., formerly of this area, now a student at Penn State. He has located some 25 sites or villages of Indian tribes which will be investigated for important relics.

Oakes was hopeful that long-time residents of the county would be able to give him valuable leads in his search for early records. While here last week the group made a test on the farm of Karol Rush in the Friendsville section to determine the type of deposit to be found there.

Museum officials have indicated the most definite information found has been uncovered in the McKees Rocks section near Pittsburgh.

Directing the entire program will be Oakes, a research archeologist with experience in survey and excavation work for the University of Chicago and the Smithsonian Institute.

Lions Cancel Picnic

WESTERNPORT — The annual picnic of the Westernport-Luke Lions Club, for members and their families, scheduled to be held Sunday at Pleasant Valley has been cancelled due to the cool weather.

Installation Postponed

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The installation of recently elected officers of Court Sancta Maria, Catholic Daughters of America, scheduled for Wednesday, was postponed account of the death of Mrs. Madeline Lee, Frostburg, a sister of Mrs. Harold Fredlock, Piedmont. The regular meeting was held September 13.

Potomac School Starts Classes

KEYSER, W. Va.—Potomac State School of West Virginia University began class work for the 1950-51 school year with approximately 100 less students on opening day than was shown last year. The enrollment, as of Friday, was 202 freshmen and 194 sophomores for a total enrollment of 396. Dean K. S. McKee said, in announcing the figures for this year, that he believes this year's total will be increased by late enrollees during the coming week. "A year ago," the dean said, "the enrollment was increased to 500 by the end of the second week."

The dean believes that the war plans have caused many young men to wait, believing that they will be called into service, and it is no use to enter school perhaps for only a short time before being called into the service. "I am confident however," he concluded, "that we'll hear from more students within the next few days."

Pays $5 Fine

KEYSER, W. Va. — John Leslie Stewart was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Monday when he pleaded guilty to destruction of property at Dave Baker's Drive-In-Theater at Burlington. Stewart was charged with removing speakers apparatus from a pole.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 (INS)—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in New York with Mary Lee and the children, will confer with Sam Katzman, Columbia producer, already on his way east. They'll discuss "The Caballero," and Doug will be offered the lead in what was once his own property.

The story, by Johnston McCully, author of "The Mark of Zorro," which starred Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., has the same adventurous zest that made "Zorro" so popular.

"State Secret," which Doug made in Italy with Glynis Johns, is being released by Columbia. So, it's dollars to doughnuts Doug, who wants to stay in his own country for a spell, will accept Katzman's offer.

My daughter, Harriet Parsons, who has been having a check up at Scripps Clinic, tells me that Red Skelton has taken off six pounds.

"The only time Red has been away from the clinic," Harriet says, "is when he and I had a cup of coffee with his wife, Georgia, who is staying at the Casa Manana.

"Eating away from the clinic is absolutely forbidden, and Red is sticking to his schedule and looks very well."

I remember that John Edgar Hoover, who was a patient at Scripps when I was in Del Mar and came often to the races, kept the clinic regulations.

Chit-chat: There has been some criticism about Ava Gardner playing Julie in "Show Boat." Not that Ava wouldn't look the part and act it, too—but her voice certainly wouldn't be comparable to that of Helen Morgan's. Now that there has been so much talk about Ava singing, it would always be suspected that her voice was dubbed.

I'm wondering why Dorothy Lamour wouldn't be very good as Julie? She has a lovely singing voice, she can act, and she's popular. Helen Morgan was her idol and she's always wanted to do Morgan's life. At least, I would like to see her make a test.

Francesca De Scaffa, the girl who is marrying Bruce Cabot Sunday, told me, "I am not Portuguese. My mother, she is French and Chilean. I was born in Venezuela and educated in Paris. My father, he is Hindu."

"What does that make you?" I asked.

"Well, not Portuguese," she said.

Francesca says she is happy because she loves Hollywood and as Mrs. Cabot she will live here.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Congratulations to the Bud Abbots who celebrate their 32nd wedding anniversary Sunday with a big party at their home. Bud is ten years older than his comedy sidekick, Lou Costello, but doesn't look it.

Marilyn Johnston, pretty dancer, has gone to Billings, Montana, to see Forrest Tucker on location. She and Tucker are planning to marry in January.

Gloria De Haven, called to Los Angeles by the sudden death of her mother, is back at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas. They tell me the first night she went on and gave a terrific show, carrying on the old tradition of "the show must go on."

Lou Clayton's heart would have been warmed by the great success of the first record Jimmy Durante and Eddie Jackson, his two pals and partners in vaudeville, made together. They recorded "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home," now a big seller. Well, nobody deserves success more than Jimmy Durante, who, for my money, is one of the sweetest characters in the whole world.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

You can mold your figure as you wish, yet get the foods that promote lovely skin and hair with the Powers diet!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

VARIETY is the spice of a meal, but a meal should not be too spicy! Whether you desire to lose or gain weight, foods should be moderately seasoned, buttered and sugared. While this is especially important for the reducer, it's a safeguard for the sturdy health and lovely complexions of the entire family.

Today's "Beauty Diet" and the five preceding ones not only make it possible for you to control your figure, gain or lose at will, but they also give you the balanced, tempting foods that promote health, sparkle and beauty. If you missed the other menus, or would like additional ones, send a letter to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin to help cover costs. In addition to twelve days of keyed menus, you will receive a caloric counter for each of the days to help you in planning similar menus yourself.

Here are the keys to figure control for use with today's beauty menu for the whole family: Foods plussed (+) are for the underweight adult and the normal adolescent only. Foods crossed (X) must be eliminated for losing weight. Foods minused (—) must be halved in quantity to lose. For maintaining present weight follow the basic menu, omitting snacks.

Today's Beauty Menu

- 4 stewed prunes with juice (—)
- 1 cup corn flakes
- 1 cup milk (—)
- 1 tbsp. sugar (X)

- 1 pat butter (—)
- coffee (optional)

MID-MORNING SNACK (+)

LUNCH

DINNER

- ½ cup steamed lima beans (—)
- ½ cup brussel sprouts
- ½ cup mixed green salad with lemon juice dressing
- ½ cup chocolate pudding (X)
- 1 cup milk (X)

BEDTIME SNACK (+)

Monday: Choosing your fall clothes colors.

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"Automatic clutch! . . . automatic gearshift! . . . I naturally supposed these new cars had automatic brakes! . . ."

WIFE PRESERVERS

It is a good habit to wipe the telephone mouthpiece with a sudsy cloth every day when you do the dusting. The soap has a disinfecting action that helps to prevent spreading the common cold or other diseases.

The Gautemala fly-catcher plant has been known to trap as many as 200 flies in one bloom.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

This is that on the military and foreign policy front a remarkably strong team has been a-building. In the White House itself, Truman now has two extremely capable advisers, W. Averell Harriman and Sidney Souers, both of whom are trusted implicitly not only by Truman but by the State Department and throughout the Administration.

In the vital intelligence field, the very able Bedell Smith will soon take over as C.I.A. chief. In the Pentagon, Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Finletter and Secretary of the Army Frank Pace have already registered real successes, and in Under Secretary John McCone, Finletter has a particularly able deputy. Stuart Symington is well qualified to run the defense effort on the home front, particularly in his almost magical ability to deal with a recalcitrant Congress.

Finally, it is highly probable that Marshall will ask Robert A. Lovett to become his Under Secretary of Defense—Lovett may already have been appointed when these words appear in print. Marshall, Acheson and Lovett have the utmost confidence in each other, and have long been accustomed to working in harness. This will mean a State and Defense Department no longer eyeing each with mutual beady-eyed suspicion, and working constantly at cross purposes, but working instead intimately together to promote American security.

In short, at least in the foreign and defense field, what may be in prospect is something that this country has not known for at least a year and a half—disinterested leadership. It may turn out to be a miracle, but in view of the nightmarish atmosphere of Washington in recent months, this prospect is rather like the sight of an oasis in a desert to a man dying of thirst. Thus at least there is good reason to be thankful to Louis Johnson for violating the code of Harry Truman.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISTRIBUTION DECISIVE

High cards are nice things to have—plenty of them. But the more dependable commodity, when you have enough of it, is distribution. Freakish long suits balanced with singletons or voids can sometimes ruin the finest-looking contracts. The converse of that is what occasionally happens to a pair that thinks it can beat the other side's contract just because it has a lot of high cards, whereas actually the freak distribution causes the honors to shrink almost to nothing in value.

	♠ K 6 5 4 ♥ A Q 6 3 ♦ 7 ♣ K 6 5 2

	♠ A 10 9 3 2 ♥ K J 10 9 8 ♦ A ♣ A Q

(Dealer: North; North-South vulnerable).

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	1 ♦	2 ♠	3 ♦
3 ♠	4 ♦	4 NT	5 ♦
5 ♥	6 ♦	6 ♠

In their efforts to impede, the not vulnerable East and West even tried to block response to South's Blackwood 4-No Trumps. But West's 5-Diamonds could not keep North from showing his single ace. A pass would have betokened none, whereas the lowest legal bid over the 5-diamonds, 5-Hearts, showed me. After East then made what he intended as a sacrifice bid of 6-Diamonds, South refused to keep from the slam and bid the 6-Spades with confidence.

Ordinarily that confidence would have been justified, in view of the cards held by North and South. Indeed, some optimists might have tried for 7-Spades with those holdings if there had been no hostile bidding. As it was, with the missing four spades all in West's hand, even the 6-Spades proved impossible. South could not have kept West from two tricks with that holding, no matter what he did.

But here's the funny thing about that crazy deal—East's bid of 6-Diamonds would not have proved a sacrifice at all if South had let him play it, either doubling it or just passing—the latter being unthinkable. East could merely cross-ruff the hand until clubs were established and would lose only to the ace of trumps. Summed up, the weak side could take 12 tricks, though holding only one king and no aces, while the strong side could take only 11 with four aces and three kings.

Your Weekend Question

Can you give a definition of false-carding? Do you feel sure that you understand the fundamental purpose of it?

Market Hits New High Since 1946 Despite Heavy Sales

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP)—The stock market plowed through heavy profit taking sales again today and closed at a new high since June 1946.

News of the successful landing of United Nations troops far behind North Korean lines set in motion strong cross currents which muddied the market's action a good part of the day.

Toward the close a clearer pattern appeared: So-called peace stocks moved ahead smartly while familiar war babies made only slow progress.

Radio-television issues attracted strong support through the day. In late dealings automobile issues came to the front. Improvement in these two groups gave the entire market a shot in the arm.

Gains outnumbered losses at the close by a fair margin. Price changes for run-of-the-mill issues were limited mostly to $1 a share of less but some popular stocks climbed more.

Business topped the 2,000,000-share mark for the third day in a row. Sales of 2,410,000 shares compared with 2,350,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .3 of one point to 81.7. This compared with the 1946 peak of 82.4, a level not touched earlier since 1931.

Radio Corp. headed the most active list with a gain of ¾ at 18. International Telephone took second place, up ⅝ at 12¾.

Also ahead in the TV section were Admiral, up 1¼ at 28½; Emerson, ⅝ at 17¼; Philco, 1⅛ at 41⅝; Zenith, 2½ at 53½; and Motorola, 1⅛ at 46⅛.

Sinclair Oil was an outstanding loser, declining ¾ to 31. Pressure stemmed from disappointment over the usual dividend announced late yesterday. An extra or increase payment had been widely expected.

General Motors moved up 1 to 94½, Chrysler ½ to 71¾, Studebaker ¼ to 31¼, and Hudson Motors ½ to 16¾.

Fannie Hutson Koon, Executrix, vs. Eddie Sedar and All States Life Insurance Company. No. 21,892 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, for the payment of two (2) life insurance policies issued on the life of Eddie Sedar, and which policies name Dr. Thomas W. Koon as Beneficiary. The Bill of Complaint states that the said Eddie Sedar left the employment of Dr. Thomas W. Koon about the 15th day of March, 1943, and that he was suffering from a very severe case of tuberculosis, and that he disappeared from the State of Maryland on or about March 15, 1943, and has never been seen or heard of since; that the All States Life Insurance Company has refused to pay the amount due under the life insurance policies until it is determined that the said Eddie Sedar is no longer living; the further object of this proceeding is to have the said Eddie Sedar decreed to be no longer living.

It is thereupon ordered this 30th day of August, 1950, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this Order of Publication to be inserted in some newspaper in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks, give notice to the said named absent defendant of the object and substance of the Bill of Complaint, warning the said Eddie Sedar to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 18th day of October next to show, if he be living, and why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

Commies Fail To Register; Face Arrest

Police Action Likely Today

Communist Party members residing in Cumberland let the midnight deadline pass without registering as required by a City Ordinance and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said "we intend to weed them out."

Flynn's statement left little doubt but that "known" members of the party residing in the city will be sought out and placed under arrest for trial under the ordinance.

The ordinance passed unanimously by the Mayor and City Council September 5 requires all communists residing in Cumberland to register with police under penalty of fine or jail sentence.

Seek Court Rule

Earlier in the day two admitted communists and a third man who believes the ordinance "concerns the life, liberty and property of himself and all citizens of Cumberland," filed a suit in Circuit Court asking that the ordinance be nullified.

Associate Judge George Henderson acting on the suit signed a "show cause" order requiring the Mayor and City Council to appear in Court September 30, but said it in no way affected the status of the ordinance.

Commenting on the action, Chief Flynn said "my plans are to go ahead and Commissioner of Police John J. Long, who introduced the motion for the ordinance backed Flynn with:

"The ordinance regarding communists was passed unanimously by the Mayor and City Council. Enforcement is the duty of the Police Department. As a freedom-loving American, as well as police commissioner it is my privilege to see that the law is enforced to the letter."

Flynn indicated that he will order his department into action after daylight today in an effort to round up all members of the Communist Party residing in Cumberland.

Police "Know Reds"

He said "there are communists in Cumberland that are known to the police and we intend to weed them out." The Chief mentioned no names nor gave any clue to the method of identification used by police.

At police headquarters the department was prepared to register any person who appeared up until midnight with the intention of complying with the ordinance.

Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney said after the deadline passed that none had appeared during the night.

The ordinance gave the party members 10 days to comply with the city law.

Failure to comply with the ordinance and conviction on such a charge carries a penalty of fine up to $100 or 30 days in jail for default of payment of such fine.

Such charges would be preferred and tried in Police Court.

Summer Play Season In City Officially Ends

The summer playground season ended officially yesterday with the closing of five major playgrounds, those at West Side, East Side, North End, Post and Penn Avenue.

Those playgrounds will open early next year, with May 15 set as the date, according to City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey.

The five areas were open for a 20-week season this year as compared to the 10 weeks for smaller playgrounds. Organized programs at the latter ended three weeks ago.

Prior to establishment of the City Recreation Department, customary practice was to open the playgrounds after school ended in June, and close them before Labor Day.

Heavy apparatus such as swings is being left on all playgrounds.

Equipment on playgrounds at schools will be taken down and stored at the discretion of the principals, while that on other playgrounds will remain out at the discretion of the respective playground associations.

Smaller items such as bats and balls have already been stored, however.

Meanwhile, Hoey released a report on the season's activities at West Side Playground, prepared by Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, playground director there.

Average daily attendance at West Side was 250, while total registration amounted to 317.

Special evening events, including square dances and movies, attracted crowds from 300 to 600 persons.

Other playground events ranged from a weekly radio show to a hobo party and various contests.

In previous years, residents of the West Side area had complained of profane language and poker playing at the playgrounds.

The former has been reduced to a minimum and the latter has been eliminated, Mrs. Hogan said in her report.

"The children were given responsibilities and made to feel the playground was theirs to care for," she wrote. "Dispositions and attributes were changed by giving a full-time program. Busy hands keep minds employed."

Objectives for the 1951 season, include increasing the program, cleaning grounds and repairing the fence, obtaining a larger building and enlarging the blacktop area for tennis Mrs. Hogan said.

Council Chamber To Be Painted

For the first time in many years, the Council Chamber at City Hall is due to get a face-lifting.

This was reported yesterday by Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property.

Walls and ceiling of the room will be painted a peach shade and woodwork will be painted a cream color. Venetian blinds will be installed.

Work will get underway Tuesday morning and painting is expected to be finished in time for the following Monday night's council session.

Mrs. Roeder said comparative prices were obtained from eight firms and individuals, and the work was awarded to those offering the lowest prices.

Raymond Messmer will be in charge of the painting work and the Venetian blinds will be furnished by the Builders Paint and Supply Company.

City Hall officials were unable to say exactly how long it has been since the council chamber was painted, although they recalled that the walls and woodwork were cleaned about 10 years ago.

Social Security Benefits Show Marked Increase

Total Payments To Be Nearly Double

Here is what happened to old-age and survivors insurance in the Cumberland area when the 1950 amendments to the Social Security Act become effective.

All monthly insurance checks now being paid to the 3,188 social security beneficiaries in the seven counties administered by the Cumberland Field Office will be raised substantially, beginning with the September checks, according to James S. Getty, manager of the local office.

Getty explained that these automatic increases, for September, are scheduled to reach local beneficiaries during the first week of October.

Increases will range from about 50 to about 100%. For example, the average benefit of approximately $26 per month for a retired worker will be increased to about $46. A widow with two children who had been receiving $55 a month will now receive about $100 altogether.

Getty said that under the old terms of the Social Security law the 2,188 beneficiaries in Allegany County would have received a total of about $42,339 for the month of September.

Under the new increases, however, total payments for September for this county are estimated to be about $77,268, or an immediate increase of some $34,929 monthly in insurance benefits.

Army Reserve Units Obtain Armory Space

Lease Signed For Footer Premises

Army Reserve units of the Cumberland area will have a new armory by November 1.

This was announced yesterday by Capt. H. W. Trimble, unit instructor.

The officer reported that a lease was signed yesterday with John "Peg" Stewart, representing the Merchandise Mart, Inc., for space on the third floor of the Howard Street wing of the Footer Building.

Extensive alterations will get underway Monday, with cost estimated at $12,000.

Stewart will have the work done at his own expense and with no increase in the nominal rental figure, Capt. Trimble said.

The armory quarters measure 8,000 square feet, or 215 by 38 feet.

Offices Planned

Separate offices will be provided for each of the six Army Reserve units.

They are Headquarters 2447th Logistical Command; 372nd M. P. Company; Company G, 319 Parachute Infantry; 942nd Ordnance Explosive Disposal Platoon; Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 398th Ordnance Battalion; and the 729th Army Postal Unit.

Each unit also will have its own supply room and "strong room," where arms and other critical items will be kept.

Capt. Trimble said high carbon steel mesh will be used in constructing the walls and ceilings of the six strong rooms, which will have special doors and locks.

An office will be provided for Capt. Trimble and his staff.

Two large training areas will also be included on the premises, one measuring about 2,000 square feet and the other about 1,400 square feet.

They will be so situated, Capt. Trimble said, that training and drill sessions can be conducted in both at the same time.

Both training areas will be wired so motion pictures and other training aids can be used.

Antenna Planned

Transmitting and receiving radio equipment is already on hand and ready for installation. An antenna will be erected so direct communication by voice or code messages will be possible with Maryland Military District headquarters in Baltimore.

Asphalt tile flooring will be installed and fluorescent lights will be used throughout.

At the start, 125 individual lockers will be installed for the men, as well as toilet facilities and showers.

Specifications are complete down to arms racks, shelving in storage rooms, blackboards and bulletin boards, and mechanical water coolers.

Capt. Trimble said the one-year lease is effective November 1, with an option for renewal.

It was signed yesterday by Sidney D. Beck, who with T. H. Becker and Emerson Hardman, all representatives of the Washington District office of the Army Engineers, surveyed the building.

Plans were drawn up by the local Army Reserve office following a visit here last April by Col. Arthur L. Shreve, chief of the Maryland Military District, who noted the need for more space and directed that steps be taken to acquire adequate quarters.

At present Capt. Trimble and his staff are occupying an office on the second floor of the Union Street Building. Unit meetings and training sessions are conducted in an adjoining office.

The Weather

A little rain yesterday frightened a few people who were caught out without umbrellas, but the shower was so brief that no one was drenched. It was a pleasant day after all with a high temperature of 70 degrees in Constitution Park and a high of 73 degrees downtown. The respective lows were 58 degrees in the park and 62 degrees downtown. Today might be partly cloudy, but cooler and a bit windy.

Flood Workers Find Old Graves Under Valley St.

Rain Washes Up Three Caskets

Three old caskets were uncovered by heavy rains Wednesday at a detention dam now being constructed at the head of Valley Street, as part of the flood control project according to Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer.

Although the caskets have deteriorated somewhat, the bones are still in them, he reported.

No gravemarkers have been noticed in the area except one the contractor uncovered during the early part of March bearing the inscription, "Mary E. Straub, Died February 27, 1889, Age 21 Years, 9 Months, 16 Days."

It is not known whether this marker has any connection with the bones and casket that have been found but it was excavated in the same area, Dickson said.

The Army Engineers have notified the City of Cumberland and are awaiting word from the Mayor as to the disposition of the remains.

A few of the older citizens have pointed out that the present construction area was the site of an almshouse and potters field years ago, but the identification of the three bodies is still unknown.

Walter Hull, chief of surveys, and foreman Bruce were the first persons to observe the graves, Dickson added.

A part of this cemetery is believed to have been called Hook Cemetery and is still standing near Walnut Street.

Mrs. Bertha Blonsky, 407 Valley Street, remembers a stone having the name "Hughes" on it and that some of the bodies were taken from there to Rose Hill Cemetery.

Gunter Plans Campaign Action

One office-seeker who is not worried about a heated political campaign is William A. Gunter, local attorney who is seeking the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Gunter has been quietly carrying on his law practice while meetings, rallies and tours are being held throughout the state.

However, Gunter said he plans "to get into action after the primary" on Monday. "I will do plenty of campaigning then—from one end of the state to the other," he declared.

Gunter was a member of the State Senate in the 1927 and 1929 sessions and during the latter was Republican floor leader. In the present campaign he entered the race on the last day for the filing of candidacy.

Suit Filed To Set Aside City Anti-Red Law

Council Has 15 Days To Answer Complaint

Circuit Court of Allegany County was asked yesterday to declare Cumberland's Anti-Communist ordinance unconstitutional and to restrain the city from enforcing the law which requires registration of all members of the Communist column.

Associated Judge George Henderson signed a "show cause order," requiring the Mayor and City Council and the Chief and Commissioner of Police to show cause on or before September 30, why a restraining order should not be issued, and why the law should not be set aside.

Judge Henderson made it clear to the Cumberland NEWS last night that his action in signing the "show cause order does not prevent the enforcement of the ordinance, and the arrest of known non-registered Communists residing in the city. The Court did not issue an injunction, nor a restraining order of any kind, although the bill of complaint asks that such action be taken by the court.

Suit Is Docketed

The suit was docketed for William Boyd Coleman, Arthur M. Schusterman both of 56 North Mechanic Street; and Clair R. Mease, 1023 Lafayette avenue, against the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, a municipal corporation; John J. Long, Police Commissioner of Cumberland, and R. Emmett Flynn, chief of Police of the City of Cumberland.

Attorneys for the petitioners are I. Duke Avnet, William H. Murphy, Harold Buchman, and Mitchell A. Dubow, of 213 Tower Building, Baltimore.

The petitioners contend the ordinance is unconstitutional and faulty in numerous phases, contravening Maryland Declaration of Rights and the Constitution of the United States.

Two Admit Membership

The bill of complaint states that Coleman and Schusterman are both members of the Communist party of Maryland and the United States.

The bill does not identify Mease as a member of the Communist party. All three plaintiffs are listed as veterans of World War II and residents of Cumberland for more than 10 years.

The section of the bill pertaining to Mease states he joins in the action "because he believes, and therefore avers, that the preservation of political liberty, including that of the Communist party, is of direct concern to the life, liberty and property of himself and all citizens of Cumberland."

It is also averred that the city ordinance is "void, illegal, unconstitutional, in violation of the Declaration of Rights and the Constitution of the United States."

It was further averred "it constitutes a bill of attainder against members of the Communist party and certain plaintiffs herein, contravening the Maryland Declaration of Rights, including Article 18 and the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution."

Takes Away Freedom

"It abrogates the rights of freedom of speech, press, and assembly guaranteed to the plaintiffs and all the people of Cumberland by the Maryland Declaration of Rights, including Article 40 thereof and by the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution, in that it 'flatly' prohibits the dissemination or sale of any literature issued by the Communist party.

"It denies them due process of law in violation of the Maryland Declaration of Rights and the Constitution of the United States," it was declared.

"It subjects them to disabilities or criminal penalties by the mere act of association with other persons or by membership in the Communist Party," it was added.

"The ordinance menaces the very existence of the democratic forms of government in Maryland and the imposition of a system of registration on the basis of their political beliefs and affiliations marks reversion to the autocratic, feudal tyrannical rule so abhorrent to the founders of the Republic."

It also claimed the City of Cumberland does not have power to enact such legislation.

Wants Ordinance Voided

Tunnel Started Under Railroad

A tunnel is being constructed under the B. and O. Railroad tracks' extending from a tunnel parallel to Williams Street to a diversion manhole on the other side where there is an old 48 inch brick sewer.

The purpose of the new tunnel is to divert sewage from the old conduit to the new one on Williams Street, which will eventually terminate at a proposed pumping station behind Hazelwood yard.

Progress should be speeded with the double shifts which began Thursday night. The tunnel itself was started September 11, and progress has been almost four feet a day.

George and Lynch is the general contractor, but the work on the tunnel is being done by a subcontractor, Armco Method.

A line plate, 72 inches in diameter, is placed in the tunnel every 16 inches. After the entire tunnel has been excavated, the pipe is inserted and the excess space filled with cement and sand.

Hay Acquitted In Auto Death

Walter E. Hay, Berlin, Pa., was acquitted yesterday of a charge of manslaughter by automobile in the death of 10-year-old Elmer S. Caton, victim of an automobile accident on Finzel Road September 5.

Trial Magistrate J. U. Stanton, Grantsville, gave the "not guilty" verdict yesterday after hearing testimony by six witnesses when the case was brought before him by Garrett County State's Attorney Dwight S. Stover.

Magistrate Stanton said he could find no evidence of "gross negligence" on the part of Hay, whose car struck young Caton as he ran down the road near his home.

The child was pronounced dead upon arrival at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Hay posted bond of $500 following his appearance before Stanton the day after the accident. The bond was refunded yesterday.

E. Ray Jones, Oakland attorney represented Hay and Edward J. Ryan, Cumberland attorney represented the victim's family at the hearing.

Large Ballot Prepared For Primary On Monday

When Republican and Democratic voters go to the polls Monday to mark their respective ballots, they will be handed the largest primary ballots seen here in some time.

With the establishment of three new polling places in the county, the precincts now total 78 and coincident with that figure, there is a total of 78 candidates on the two ballots.

The Republican ballot printed on white paper, contains 50 names, while the Democratic ballot, printed on pink paper, contains 28 names.

A large number of candidates on each ballot this election is noted for the party state central committees.

A total of 14 are listed as candidates for the six seats on the Democratic State Central Committee, while the Republican ballot shows 12 candidates for the GOP Committee of six.

The Republican ballot shows party contests for United States Senator, attorney general of Maryland, county commissioners, state's attorney, county treasurer, clerk of court, sheriff, House of Delegates and the state central committee.

Of the 50 candidates on the GOP ballot, when the returns are counted there can be only 22 winners and 28 will be defeated.

"What Can I Do To Help" Is Theme Of Chest Drive

Developing a theme for this year's Community Chest Campaign has occupied the attention of campaign leaders for the past few days. They settled on "What Can I Do to Help?"

The theme in Cumberland is particularly timely because citizens have been asking "what can be done" to assist the national program of preparedness.

Winfield H. Adam, publicity chairman of this year's campaign, pointed out that the nine Community Chest agencies, with the hundreds of volunteer workers have the day to day task among many others, of helping to develop youngsters into strong and healthy young men and women. This bears particularly upon the problem of juvenile deliquency, which is still one of the nation's greatest unsolved problems.

In addition, physical examinations for the Armed Services are revealing a serious deficiency brought out during World War II, where the percentage of rejections because of physical or mental defects was startlingly high.

Adam also pointed out that while many people consider the Chest as financing relief programs, that this problem is far too large for volunteer gifts, and in the main, is supported through tax funds.

Several Community Chest agencies, Associated Charities, the Salvation Army, Jewish Welfare, and the Traveler's Aid Society, however, supply limited food, clothing and housing in emergency cases until the proper help can be given.

He emphasized that this help given necessarily had to be confined to instances where the public programs were not able to act promptly enough or cope with the immediate situation.

The budget adopted by the Community Chest Board of Directors for this coming year's work is $87,794.34, being $3,519.00 higher than the amount secured in last year's successful Chest campaign.
